Surfin' dog

BILL AND Janice Owen of Carmel swear their dog Dar is part surfer, Australian Sheepdog and Golden Retriever. The surfer and Golden Retriever parts we can believe after the intrepid canine jumped into the surf, swam out about 20 yards, retrieved a tennis ball and body-surfed back to shore, but

Australian Sheepdog? Come on. There wasn't a ram or lamb or ewe in sight! The Owens stick by their story. All this happened on Sunday last at Carmel Beach. (Holly McFarland photo.)

County joins in on lawsuit against oil company

By DAVID LELAND

IN CLOSED session Tuesday, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors unanimously approved joining several other counties in filing a counter lawsuit against a major oil company.

On Aug. 7, Los Angeles-based Gulf Western Oil and Gas filed a claim against Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Diego, San Francisco, San Luis Obispo, Sonoma and San Mateo counties, in an attempt to usurp local laws banning onshore oil facilities.

Locally, county voters passed Measure A by a huge (76 percent) majority in the November 1986 election. Several counties within the state also adopted similar measures in that election.

Measure A says that all onshore development will be subject to a vote by the people.

That put a damper on the federally-sponsored offshore oil drilling because the oil would have to be pumped to refineries on the shore.

"Our coast would be displaced by the oil-processing treatment and transportation facilities," said 4th District Supervisor Sam Karas, who wrote the favorable argument for the 1986 ballot measure.

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman sees the issue shaping up as a classic land-use battle.

"People want to participate in any decision that affects the coastline," she said.

"We see this lawsuit as a direct circumvention of the people of Monterey County."

The next step in the unusual banding together of counties from both Northern and Southern California will be a series of meetings to come up with legal strategy and representation, Strasser Kauffman said.

At its next meeting, Sept. 1, Strasser Kauffman said the board would release $3,000 toward a legal fund being established by the consortium of counties filing the counter lawsuit.

She did not know when the lawsuit would be ready for filing or what the eventual financial toll will be for the county.

"It (money spent on the lawsuit) will undoubtedly be determined by how much money the oil companies put into the suit," she said. "It will be an expensive shared endeavor."

But one thing is for sure, unless there is immediate action taken, drilling will begin soon, with offshore drilling slated for the Santa Cruz coastline in 1990.

of state's rights versus federal jurisdiction, Strasser Kauffman said.

With that in mind, she plans to ask for help from the big guns.

'The lawsuit is a way for Monterey County to use its land-use powers,' said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman. 'It's one of the few times where local government has authority. Monterey County will be in the forefront of the fight.'

THE LAWSUIT reignites the argument

Send aid to Contras

Dear Editor:

While we're investigating, why not investigate pro-Communists? In a more sane day, Congress would have dealt severely with 10 of its members who, in March 1984, sent the infamous "Dear Commandante" letter to Daniel Ortega, the Communist leader of Nicaragua who was at the very time oppressing clergy, destroying free press, committing atrocities against Nicaragua's Miskito Indians, refusing to hold free elections, and welcoming Cuban and Soviet support. That letter praising Communist dictator Ortega and pledging to oppose Contra aid was signed by Jim Wright, Hamilton, Boland and seven others. Any wonder Boland concocted his illegal amendment to block funding for the Contras?

Why did the leaders of our nation subvert Nicaragua and Iran, turn the U.S. canal in Panama over to the pro-Communist Torrijos regime, undermine and subvert the pro-Western government in what was once Rhodesia? Why did our leaders betray Chiang Kai Shek; "snatch defeat from the jaws of victory" in Korea; abandon the 1956 Hungarian Freedom Fighters we had pledged to help; stand truth on its head to favor Castro's takeover of Cuba; betray the courageous anti-Communists at Cuba's Bay of Pigs; send 50,000 brave Americans to a fruitless death in Vietnam — and so much more?

Why has the U.S. supplied food, technology, equipment, credit and legitimacy to the Soviets for decades? The thugs who run the USSR continue to crush Poland, ravage Afghanistan, support Cuba and Nicaragua, destroy unarmed civilian aircraft, and foster terrorism and insurrection on every continent.

Write Congress and demand we send aid to Nicaragua's Freedom Fighters!

Shattered myths

Dear Editor:

The Russians are coming! The Russians are coming! They are actually here!

Three Soviet friends, Slava, Boris and Natalia from Alushta, a Crimean city on the Black Sea, arrived here this week.

We had visited Alushta in May. The Soviets had joined our New Forum Program at Livadia Palace in Yalta and had played host to our visit. They made sure we saw the spectacular sights of the area and met the friendly people. Now it was our turn to host them, making sure they saw the spectacular sights of our area and met our friendly people.

Alushta and Santa Cruz are sister cities, a relationship formalized by the mayors of the two cities this week.

Alushta, a popular summer resort for Soviets, lacks accommodations for foreign tourists. Therefore, our government terms it a "closed city."

The Monterey Peninsula itself, because of the military, is considered "off-limits" for Soviet visitors.

Yet, there we were in May, and here they are in August.

We saw what and who they wanted us to see. They kept us so busy we scarcely had time to wander off by ourselves to "see the real Russia."

They saw what and who we wanted them to see. And we kept them so busy they scarcely had time to wander off by themselves to "see the real America."

We — Soviets and Americans — had a great time together. We know we can be friends if only our leaders would quit playing games with our lives.

Music to his ears

Dear Editor:

Once again the fall semester is upon us; we hope it will be fruitful as we being our second-year music program at Carmel High School. Our "New Beginning" concert was the finest initiative anywhere. We had tremendous support, encouragement and success.

One of our goals is to incorporate a performing tour this coming June to Australia (Expo), New Zealand, the Fiji Islands and Hawaii. In order to achieve this educationally ambitious venture, we must raise enough financial appropriations.

It is my desire that we can include on the tour our newly formed jazz ensemble, our concert wind ensemble and our chamber orchestra.

Some members of this fine community have recognized the importance of these performances and have actively interconnected ideas to help raise monies.

I wish to thank Carmel's great jazz station KRML (Gil Wisdom) and Uniform Systems (Chris McKay), who collectively sponsored The Crossroads Summer Jazz Series. They had a special evening performance with Mark Murphy and the Smith Dobson Trio to aid our program.

I also wish to thank the Carmel Forest Theatre Guild, which presented a benefit performance of Brigadoon under the able baton of Kerry Thompson and the talented directorship of Hamish Tyler for the sole purpose of aiding the performing arts in the school system.

These positive actions of contribution to the education of our children once again reflects to me the respect and foresight that this community recognizes. Let's face it — if our children enjoy an active love for the arts, we as a total community will be the recipients.

Massive or monstrous?

Dear Editor:

Thank you for the front-page article and editorial concerning the massive apartment/commercial complex proposed for the R-4 zone. It helped to alert citizens to this problem.

However, we are not really a "new citizen's committee..." We have just changed our name from Neighbors of Cherry Hall. Your objection to our terming the complex "monstrous" could be justifiably changed to read "The largest building project of its kind ever proposed for Carmel."

The numbers provided by the planning

All booked up

BOOK LOVERS crowded the "How To" section during Friends of Harrison Memorial Library's annual book sale last weekend at Sunset Center's Carpenter Hall. Proceeds staff speak for themselves — a maximum of 103 apartments, a density of up to 83 units per acre — three times as much as that allowed in any other peninsula city. Even using the developer's numbers of 33 and 60 per acre, we would have densities 32 percent and 164 percent higher than the most permissive city on the Monterey Peninsula. Density is the problem.

The R-4 zone calls for "transition" to the R-1 single family area — a buffer zone of lower density. This is intensification — not transition.

If this project is approved, Carmel will never be the same.

Apartments vs. water

Dear Editor:

Once again Carmel has something in common with New York City.

Two years ago, when I was visiting a friend there, she was looking at the new condos being built in her area and visualizing all the new flushing that would be going on when they were occupied. At the same time there was a severe water shortage and residents were being asked to drastically curtail their use of water.

Now Carmel is considering a permit to build a lot of new apartments when only a few months ago it seemed it was trying to get an increase in its allotment of water. I am unable to understand the thinking that goes into this kind of consideration.

I well remember the shortage we had 10 years ago and personally am not interested in having to go through another one. Yet last winter we did not have enough rainfall and there is no assurance this year will be better. In fact, it could be worse.

For the benefit of those who have moved here in the last 10 years, our shortage incurred rationing of 50 gallons of water a day per person. This involved for me: kneeling every day in my ivy bed where the meter is located, using a special implement to take off the cover, writing down the numbers on the dials, translating them into gallons, and keeping track of them by the day and averaging to be sure I didn't go over my allotment.

I also looked at the brochure which had come with my dishwasher and washing machine to find out how many gallons of water they used for a full load, measured the cubic inches in the toilet tank and translated them into gallons, took short showers and not every day, watered the yard less, and didn't wash my car. Thus I kept within my 50 gallons. I am still doing some of these things.

So far as I know our source of water is what falls out of the sky and ends up in the Carmel Valley aquifer. If anyone knows how this will increase with more wells being dug, I wish they would explain it to me in detail. Digging more wells may increase distribution but does it create water? Logically, it seems to me that the more taken out, the less is left no matter how many wells there are.

All of this is by way of saying I think it is a mistake to allow any more construction on the peninsula until we have at least normal rainfall over a period of years. There are a lot more hotels and motels here now than 10 years ago and more people have moved here. How is less water going to be spread around fairly?

Pine Inn offers city new plan for parking lot

By DAVID LELAND

OFFICIALS OF the Pine Inn have prepared a deal it believes will help both Carmel and the luxury hotel lessen the parking crunch in the downtown area.

The Carmel City Council will hear the Pine Inn's offer at its 4 p.m. meeting Tuesday, Sept. 1 in the Carmel Woman's Club, located on Eighth Avenue and San Carlos Street.

An inquiry from the Pine Inn regarding the city-owned property at the corner of Sixth Avenue and Lincoln Street was offered up last month by hotel owner Richard Gunner.

Until the city agreed to use the Crocker Bank building for its Harrison Memorial Library Annex several months ago, Carmel and the Pine Inn had plans for a joint parking lot venture on that property.

But since that time, the city has terminated that deal and the lot lies vacant.

The Pine Inn is offering to build a one-story structure at its own expense, with the plans subject to city approval. That would create two levels of parking at the site.

The lower level would be at Monte Verde Street, currently the level of the Pine Inn parking lot, while the upper level would be at the elevation of Lincoln Street.

Under the plan, the Pine Inn would deed the air space rights and the second level to the city. In exchange, the city would deed the subsurface rights and the first level of the parking structure on its property to the Pine Inn.

The city would own and operate its level as would the Pine Inn. Both sides would be responsible for maintaining landscaping on its side.

"Under the proposal, both the city and the Pine Inn would almost double its parking capacity at this location at no cost to the city," Gunner states in his letter.

THE PINE Inn has made an offer to the city for a joint Pine Inn-city parking lot after a previous deal fell through when the city council opted to build the library annex on another site three blocks away. Details of the offer will be revealed at Sept. 1 city council meeting.

Gunner adds that he is prepared to begin preparation of preliminary plans immediately.

IN OTHER action at its Sept. 1 meeting, the city council will hear:

- An appeal of an Aug. 12 Carmel Planning Commission decision which found that Landell Studios was in violation of its use permit.

At that time the planning commission found that the items that were being sold and displayed were not in accordance with the home furnishing permit the store had been issued.

Landell Studios Associates, in its appeal to the council, however, says that the store never wanted a permit to operate a home furnishings store.

"We applied for a permit for an artist's studio and showroom so that we could display and sell our art work and other contemporary design pieces..." the appeal states. "We were issued a permit for a furniture store!"

In the past the planning commission has refused art gallery use permits for commercial spaces not previously used for art stores in an effort to control their increase.

Meanwhile, the clock is ticking for Landell Studios, with the planning commission having scheduled Sept. 8 for a hearing where its owners could have their use permit revoked, which would be a first in Carmel.

"The conditions of the use permit do not apply to what we are about," the appeal continues. "We cannot successfully operate under the conditions of the permit as it stands, nor can we meet the time limit set by the commission to comply with their demands."

City Atty. Don Freeman told the planning commission that until the appeal process has been completed, Landell Studios can continue its operations.

- An appeal of an Aug. 12 planning commission decision, which denied a use permit to Bradford Carl to expand his dentist office into the private house on his property from the rear office.

Currently that property is rented by attorney Tom Nash, who maintains an office and residence there.

In his appeal, Carl says that he needs more space to continue his practice.

"Eight dentists used to practice in Carmel, they left town due to the parking and the need for more office space," his appeal claims. "I have the parking but need the additional space."

- The council will not review the controversial specific plan for the R-4 district, which is still at the planning commission stage. (The commission met to discuss the R-4 issue yesterday, Aug. 26.)

It had been rumored that this issue would come before the council at this meeting, but there had not been sufficient time to notify the public.

Planners to review proposals for 'significant' buildings

By NANCY HILLS

WHAT RECOURSE would owners of the Pine Inn have if the famous structure burned to the ground?

The Carmel Planning Commission will consider what the city's policies would be in regard to rebuilding such older structures when it reviews the proposed Significant Buildings Element in the city's general plan.

The planning commission will meet at 3

"The existing element required that a building designated as significant had to be rebuilt if destroyed by natural causes (fire, earthquake etc.) same way as the original," staff planner Brian Roseth explained. "Practically speaking, that is not always possible."

p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 2 in Carmel City Council Chambers.

The focus of the meeting will be the proposed changes to the Significant Buildings Element.

The element, which is not required by state law, sets out guidelines for the preservation, reconstruction and remodeling of historically and/or architecturally important buildings.

The general plan committee has proposed an almost complete revision to the existing element. Additionally, Carmel Heritage has proposed its own element which it would like the planning commission to consider.

The committee's version outlines a voluntary program through which property owners can apply to have their buildings designated "significant." The current element mandates a non-voluntary program.

If the building meets the criteria as set forth in the element for the designation, the property owner can rebuild the same structure after a natural disaster without having to meet current codes.

"The existing element required that a building designated as significant had to be rebuilt if destroyed by natural causes (fire, earthquake etc.) same way as the original," staff planner Brian Roseth explained in March when the element's changes were first introduced.

"Practically speaking, that is not always possible," he said.

Building codes are different from years ago and materials and design may be too expensive to duplicate. Restoration of a building may also be economically unfeasible.

The committee believed existing regulations would impose an unfair financial burden on the property owner.

Some of the conditions of the proposed element are:

- A voluntary program in which property owners may request significant building status or remove their property from the list. The Carmel Planning Commission would judge whether the building is significant.

The benefit to the owner is that even if the building does not meet current code requirements, it can still be rebuilt as virtually the same structure.

- Recognizes that some interiors of some buildings are significant.

Criteria the planning commission would use to judge if a building is significant are:

- The structure was built by one of Carmel's master builders.

- The structure remains in substantially the same form and design character as originally built with few alterations or, if altered, alterations that have been sensitive to the original design.

- The structure uses local materials such as indigenous Carmel stone, local granite, river rock or local timber.

- The structure exhibits outstanding character using one or more of the common design themes that contribute to the village character of Carmel.

- It does not accentuate or "force" its use of non-contemporary design elements.

- Relates to human scale in its forms, massing and relationship to the site.

- Invites pedestrian circulation into, through and around the project site.

- Is well-coordinated with development, design and/or pedestrian circulation on adjoining properties.

- Exhibits craftsman construction and attention to detailing, such as hand-carving or detailed painting, sculptural forms, surface relief and a variety of materials.

- Is strongly associated with the culture, history and/or unique development of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

CARMEL HERITAGE has proposed another version of the element which calls for the establishment of a Preservation Commission. This commission would be comprised of professionals, such as architects, and concerned citizens, particularly those with knowledge of Carmel's historical past.

This commission would develop an inventory of local historical, cultural and architecturally significant sites which the planning commission and department can use as a planning and educational tool.

"One of the most important things is that we're not stressing buildings. We're also interested in cultural and historic sites and other aspects of the area that make it unique," Enid Sales, a preservationist, explained.

The inventory would not only include sites professionals consider important but sites and resources that are important to Carmel citizens and their environment.

"It's a way for the members of the community to become involved in retaining the uniqueness of Carmel," Sales said.

The preservation commission would establish a new ordinance that outlines the criteria for inclusion in the inventory.

Suggested criteria include:

- Sites and structures associated with important Carmel people, groups or events.

- Structures with particular architectural styles, construction techniques, unique materials or are "notable works of specific builders, designers, architects and artisans."

- Sites of important community functions or events.

- Both public and private natural scenic components.

- Sites or structures that are integral parts of the streetscape or neighborhood.

PBCSD and CSD join forces on reclamation project

WATER RECLAMATION for the peninsula took another step forward Aug. 24 when the Carmel Sanitary District and Pebble Beach Community Services District boards met together for the first time in 10 years.

The two boards voted to create a joint committee that will choose and recommend an engineering firm to design portions of a proposed reclamation system.

The board members also decided that independent water reclamation consultant Frank Dryden would write a memorandum of understanding outlining the duties and responsibilities of the agencies in regard to the project.

The reclamation plant, to be located at the CSD facility, would provide non-potable water for golf course irrigation. The potable — or drinkable — water currently used on the golf courses would be freed for reallocation by the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District to the district's communities. The district estimates the plant would provide about 800 acre feet of additional water for the peninsula's use.

The two agencies have been at odds for years about a reclamation plant in what has been characterized as a "turf war." The conflict revolved around who would get to build and own a reclamation plant to serve needs of the area.

The company is now working on an agreement to fund much of the new proposal, estimated to cost $15 million, in exchange for a guarantee of 400 acre feet of potable water. The water would be used to develop building sites in Del Monte Forest.

County joins lawsuit to stop oil facilities

"I'm going to ask the governor for help," she said. "This is truly a statewide issue. Our voters are being overriden."

The lawsuit filed by Gulf Western Oil and Gas claims that federal laws take priority over local ordinances when they impede federal policy.

Plus, the lawsuit claims that domestic oil is such a vital resource that it has to be developed from offshore drilling, an idea that Strasser Kauffman disagrees with.

"Our response is that this not a very productive area," she said. "Our coastline has other predominant uses that are far more important (than oil)."

She cited tourism, the fishing industry and environmental protection as priorities by the people using the California coast.

She also found fault with the idea that federal policy can override the will of the local voters.

"The lawsuit is a way for Monterey County to use its land-use powers," she said. "It's one of the few times where local government has authority. Monterey County will be in the forefront of the fight."

Youth football taking applicants

MONTEREY PENINSULA Youth Football welcomes kids ages 9-14 to join the Redskins and the 49ers football and cheerleading teams. The Redskins are in the Pee Wee division and the 49ers are in the Midget division.

The objective of youth football is to instill the ideals of sportsmanship, scholarship and physical fitness by teaching the fundamentals of football in an organized, supervised and safe environment according to organizers.

The tentative 1987 game schedule begins Sept. 6, but practice began Aug. 3.

Youngsters who wish to join and their parents must fill out forms, receive physician clearance and pay fees. Registration forms are available at the PG Recreation Department, the Carmel Youth Center and the Monterey Youth Center.

River School PTA sponsors opening coffee

THE CARMEL River School Parent Teacher Association (PTA) will sponsor an Opening Day Coffee for parents the first day children are in classes this Monday.

The informal coffee, set for 8:30 a.m. Monday, Aug. 31 in the River School Library, is held each year on opening day and allows parents to become acquainted with each other, as well as with River School PTA activities. All parents of River School students are encouraged to attend after they deliver their children to class.

For information, contact Carmel River School at 624-4609.

Fire prevention

IN AN effort to keep Mission Trail Park up to safety standards during the current dry summer conditions, the Carmel Public Works Department has cleared 1,000 yards of debris, logs and other flammable objects away from the park during the past month. Here, Cliff Hatch, public works employee, cuts up some of the dead wood recently removed from the park. (Holly McFarland photo.)

Longtime opponent of dam tires of his one-man stand

By NANCY HILLS

JOHN WILLIAMS is known for his blunt, albeit considered ideas — being politically palatable has never been a criteria for whether he expresses them or not.

For the past few years, Williams has been in the singular position of being the only Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board member who opposes the proposed 29,000-acre-foot dam on the Carmel River.

The additional water it will provide will only be used to fuel further growth in the hospitality industry, he feels.

That judgment is based on growth projections from the cities and Monterey County gathered by the water district for an environmental impact report/statement on the dam.

"The only way to stop them is to turn off the tap," he said.

Williams' solo act on the board is soon to end; he has decided against putting his name on the ballot for the Nov. 3 election. He cites changes in his work schedule and being tired of "saying and listening to the same thing" as reasons for his decision.

Sitting in his rustic Carmel Highlands office, on land his grandfather purchased overlooking the ocean and an expanse of tranquil pine forest, it is not hard to understand why this long-term water board director and hydrologist is known for his strong environmentalist views and opposition to development.

First elected in 1978 when the district was formed, Williams has had two terms on the board and has worked as a staff member from 1981 to 1983.

As a staffer he developed a paper on the Carmel River Watershed Management Plan.

The paper summarizes the history and habitat change resulting from both natural and man's influences in the Carmel River Basin. He also developed another paper on the legal issues of that habitat.

Williams would rather not have a dam at all, or, if it has to be, a smaller 7,000-acre-foot reservoir on San Clemente Creek, a major tributary of the river.

The district investigated that alternative, but rejected it as too expensive per acre foot of water it would gain.

So strong is his opposition to the proposed dam, that he has submitted one of the ballot arguments against it for the Nov. 3 election. The water district is conducting an advisory vote in November asking if voters wish the district to continue pursuing the $44 million project.

His position even puts him at odds with many of the peninsula's other environmentalists who believe a dam will restore the Carmel River environment.

"My problem with the dam is not growth per se but the kind of growth we can anticipate," Williams explained. "That is, most of the growth will be related to the tourist industry."

As the hotel and convention industry grows, it will "dominate the local politics and economy," he said.

"Whoever dominates the local economy dominates the local political bodies," he added.

Williams feels it already does to a certain degree, but the proposed 29,000-acre-foot dam — called the New San Clemente Dam — on the Carmel River will make it worse.

"Balance in local power seems fairly tenuous now, but I think growth in tourist and convention business will tip that balance," Williams said.

The larger dam will only feed that growth, he feels, and putting a cap on available water is the only way to stop it.

No new water supply will increase the prospects of rationing in the next few years,

HYDROLOGIST JOHN Williams' opposition to a new dam on the Carmel River has often made him the lone opposition voice on the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board. Williams, however, who has been on the board since its inception, is not seeking re-election in this November's election.

Peer counseling program fosters 'family' of peers

By DAVID LELAND

JUDITH WOLFE seldom attempts to describe the successful Peer Counseling program at Carmel High School. Instead, she alludes to The Velveteen Rabbit, a classic children's book for all ages, which fits the experience to a T.

"Real isn't how you are made," said the Skin Horse, "it's a thing that happens to you. When a child loves you for a long, long time, not just to play with, but REALLY loves you, then you become real."

And what better way for youngsters attending the high school to learn about life and loving than by helping each other grow?

"People who go through Peer Counseling are like part of the family," says senior Erin Poole, who is entering her second year as a counselor.

Poole began her tenure last year by welcoming incoming freshman and learning more about the counseling process taught bi-weekly by Wolfe, who also has a private therapy practice on the peninsula.

"I learned to look at people in a better way," says Poole, referring to her first year of service at the school. "I didn't think I had anything in common with anyone, but I did."

In a nutshell, Peer Counseling takes up where the school system leaves off. Too often, Wolfe says, the youngsters learn the basics of education but lose out on the extras.

"People are realizing that schools have a large job," she says. "But there is a human element that's been missing."

That, she says, concerns both emotional growth and social skills.

"Our goal is a better developed, more well-rounded individual that will be healthy in all aspects of life," explains Wolfe.

FOR STUDENTS beginning Peer Counseling, training classes are held each Tuesday and Thursday before school. The advanced counselors meet Wednesday mornings.

In her curriculum, Wolfe defines the duties of a peer counselor.

"By Peer Counselor we mean a student who is trained to listen, clarify, guide and support another student," she says, "thus enabling that student to make more responsible choices about his/her behavior."

To establish this model, Wolfe teaches skills that encourage forming relationships, assisting students who are lonely, shy, handicapped or troubled, or in some way not in touch with the positive parts of school life.

"It's nice to have a big group of people that are there to help," says junior Cindy Nishiguchi, beginning her second year as a counselor. "It really made me feel better."

The program is expanding each year, Wolfe says. Last year 80 students took advantage of the experience, while this year between 150 and 200 youngsters are expected to sign up.

"Our goal is to eventually impact the whole school," Wolfe says.

And if Peer Counseling-supporter Marie Ishida, Carmel High principal, has her way that "impact" may come soon.

"I have a target date of fall of 1988," she says of making that subject available for all students. But first, the CUSD needs to decide under what curriculum the subject would fall.

Ishida says the most likely candidate is health education, which is being reviewed this year by the district.

Currently students only are enrolled in health for nine weeks a year, but Ishida is hoping that that time can be increased to a full semester to incorporate the instruction of values, goal-setting and communication.

"I really don't see any obstacles," she says.

But while Peer Counseling awaits the umbrella of the Carmel Unified School District, the program receives partial funding from outside sources.

As many as 30 professionals peninsula-wide take part in the curriculum thanks to the donations of the Carmel Valley Rotary Club, the Carmel Mission Kiwanis and the Carmel Rotary Club, according to Teri de Barros, who founded Peer Counseling about six years ago.

But with a budget of $7,000 last year and an expected budget of $10,000 this year, there is a space which needs to be filled.

"When there isn't adequate funding I fill in the gap," explains de Barros, who practices ophthalmology on the peninsula.

BUT DE BARROS points out that there is more to the program than the life skills course offered by Wolfe.

Initially, she says, Peer Counseling was established to offer an alternative to drug and alcohol abuse by young people.

"We wanted to make a group of kids see that it's OK to have fun without drugs and alcohol," she explains.

To orchestrate that, de Barros, her staff and the students plan social events such as parties, progressive dinners and bonfires on the beach.

"That's when everyone can release and know there is such a thing as a natural high," says senior Clarissa Berkman, in her second year with the program. "We do cool things but we don't involve drugs or alcohol — people don't even bring it up."

But perhaps the biggest favorite with both the staff and students is the bi-annual retreats to the Big Sur Lodge, where about 60 youngsters work at letting their feelings go.

"We call it 'Taking Off the Mask,'" says de Barros. "They can become their true self."

The two-day affair is totally organized by the students, says Berkman. The youngsters also supply the food by bringing potluck dishes.

For the students attending the retreat, which features speakers from the peninsula on subjects such as suicide, sexual abuse and alcohol, life after the experience is never the same.

"It's very strange," says Berkman, who will be a Peer Counselor leader this year. "The kids develop a phenomenal bond. It's an enormous opening of the heart."

It is just this type of feeling that helps younger students when high school counselors take their program into the area's middle and elementary schools to spread the word that it's better to talk to your peers than to keep feelings bottled up inside.

About one time each month during the school year a panel of seven students speak to students in surrounding schools.

Adults are asked to leave the room, Berkman says, and the students are then allowed to open up and ask the Peer Counselors anything that might be on their minds.

"Their main function is as role models," says de Barros of the panel.

But perhaps the best way to sum up the program comes in the form of a letter from a student who moved away from the area last June.

"I've never felt so loved and cared for by my friends," wrote Laurie, who asked that her last name not be used. "As soon as I learned to listen and really care for them, they started doing the same for me. What can I say, I loved Peer Counseling! It was the most incredible experience I've had in all my years of school."

Children's center sets open house

CARMEL CHILD Development Center is having an open house for the community from 10 a.m. to noon, Saturday, Aug. 29.

The newly remodeled child daycare and nursery school is located in the former Carmelo School, 8460 Carmel Valley Road (across from the Mid-Valley Fire Station).

School will begin Aug. 31 for both full-day and half-day sessions. A wide variety of activities will be available to children 2 to 5 years. Language development, music, creative movement, animal care, science, math, cooking, dramatic play, and large and small motor skill activities will all be included in the curriculum.

Last year parents and interested people filled out a Child Care Assessment Survey which indicated a dire need for more day care for children in the area.

Wendy Banks, who had formerly been a director at CUSD's Bay School, has been named Coordinator of Early Childhood Education, and will direct the Carmel Child Development Center. Parents or employers wanting more information should call 624-8047.

National Merit Scholars

ANNE MARIE di Stefano, Christopher Nolte, and Mathew Gonzalez (right to left), of Carmel High School, are winners in the 1987 National Merit Scholarship contest. The program is privately supported without federal or state funds and is conducted annually by the National Merit Scholarship

Corp. More than 6,000 academically talented students in each program win scholarships for college undergraduate study. Semifinalists are the highest scorer in each state and represent less than one half of 1 percent of a state's secondary school seniors.

John Williams will not seek re-election to board

Williams said, but whether the rationing would be as much as in the the 1976-1977 drought depends on the severity of the shortage.

Also, new wells have been drilled since then, which have increased the water supply.

WILLIAMS DISPUTES those who say that the other boardmembers are not in favor of a dam.

"I think most of the incumbent board wants a new dam as much as the district's critics do," he said.

In fact, Williams has complained in the past that too many of the board's decisions are designed around getting the New San Clemente Dam through.

Despite his opposition to the project, Williams has always voted on issues with an eye to moving the process along as fast as possible.

Ironically, in some cases Williams said that by voting against an agenda item it would slow down progress toward the dam, but he would nonetheless vote in favor of moving ahead.

"I think the people who imagine they are going to come on the district board and push the process forward don't know what they are getting into and, actually, are apt to slow it down more than anything else," Williams said.

Compiling the information needed to satisfy all the state and federal agencies, as well as the diverse interests on the peninsula, has been a long and arduous process.

The water district started work on an EIR/EIS for a dam on Carmel River in 1983 and recently received an administrative draft of the document. The board expects to have a draft ready for public comment in September.

The document reviews the peninsula's water supply, growth effects of the proposed dam, its impact on the river environment, discusses some of the rejected alternatives, its physical makeup, process for application and other state and federally mandated topics.

The project proposed by the board is 29,000 acre feet (one acre foot equals 325,851 gallons), with new wells in Carmel Valley and Seaside aquifers and improvements of the Begonia Water Treatment Plant.

The wells and the treatment plant will remain the property of California-American Water Co., a private utility that distributes most of the water in the district.

Any new wells and improvements to the treatment plant will be paid for by Cal-Am and will remain the property of the company.

Most of peninsula's water supply is pumped from the Carmel River aquifer, the underground portion of the river, or is taken from a small dam located upstream from Carmel Valley Village. The Carmel River runs above ground only when the aquifer is filled. Otherwise, it is completely or partially absorbed into the ground to fill the aquifer.

Because of the increased demand over the years, which has increased the pumping from the aquifer, the water supply to the valley's natural vegetation has been severely reduced, Williams said.

Additionally, taking water directly from the existing dam prevents it from running into the aquifer where some of it can be used by the vegetation before it is pumped out for human consumption.

Because of this combined removal of water from Carmel Valley, the trees and plants have begun to die around the river, leaving embankments vulnerable to severe erosion, Williams said.

That is one of the reasons the river is beginning to wander from its original course, taking large sections of land with it.

The district hopes that by storing some of the annual rainfall in a dam during peak periods, it can refill the aquifer through timed releases and keep the water table up and the river flowing.

That will reduce the impact of pumping from the aquifer and restore the river, dam advocates and some environmentalists have projected.

WILLIAMS DOES not disagree with the basic concept of restoration of the Carmel River environment through a dam, but feels there are other means to the same end without increasing the peninsula's water supply.

Williams said he believes irrigation around the pumps and wells would revive the valley's vegetation and less water could be taken directly from the dam.

But if a dam is inevitable, it should be smaller and off the main river channel.

"I think that the (proposed) dam will provide that benefit for the river, but I believe a smaller dam on San Clemente Creek would be nearly as good," Williams said.

"It wouldn't put as much water in the river as the proposed New San Clemente Dam, but it would not be a migration barrier for the steelhead and would not affect the winter flows in the river," he added.

The district is negotiating with California Department of Fish and Game about acceptable ways to get the steelhead trout upstream and downstream over the proposed dam.

The Fish and Game Department can hold up the project with litigation if they do not approve of the district's decisions.

Heavy winter water flows are also important, Williams said, because they are the ones that shape the river's channel.

The dam would spread out the flows on the river over time, so the channel will get smaller. That is fine, until a "major event" — such as the rains that happen every 20 years or so, Williams said.

The smaller channel is "good until the larger flows happen and the river doesn't have a large enough channel to contain the water," Williams explained.

He feels those conditions create a greater potential for flooding.

Williams said a 7,000-acre-foot dam on San Clemente Creek, in fact, may be one of the alternatives to the proposed project that state agencies could be very interested in. Though already discussed and rejected in the EIR/EIS, the agencies could require the district to investigate it in greater depth.

Aside from the controversy about the dams, Williams is happy with the district's accomplishments over the years.

"Basically, we've got a pretty good research effort going and I think we know a lot about our water supply than other water districts do," Williams said.

He also believes the Carmel River Management Program has had good results in restoring the river and that the district's annual water allocation system to the cities is a good idea.

He will not disappear from the scene, Williams said. He plans to remain active, providing assistance to environmental groups in the area and helping the steelhead fishermen with their efforts to protect the river.

OPEN EVERY DAY 9:30 A.M. TO 6:00 P.M.

Friends band together to help a special lady

ON JULY 22, 24-year-old Michelle Clark lost her wallet to a thief — and her left leg to Carmel Valley Road.

She also gained at least $40,000 to $50,000 in medical bills — not including physical therapy — and a lifetime of purchasing artificial limbs. Each limb costs about $2,500 to $3,500 and, on the average, they wear out every three years.

And no medical insurance. Married just six months and starting out in life, Michelle and Patrick Clark were saving money to buy a home in Cachagua. She had a car insurance policy, but its medical coverage is only for $5,000.

That's why The Carmel Pine Cone, Pacific Grove Monarch and The Cheese Shop in Carmel Plaza have banded together to raise funds to help offset these expenses. Michelle is very special to all of us here. She's a co-worker and a friend.

Michelle was heading home at about 11 p.m. and negotiating a turn past Los Laureles Grade when the rear brakes locked on her little 1968 Datsun 1600 Roadster. She shot off the roadway and through the guardrail.

In the clash of metal to metal the guardrail was the victor. In the clash of flesh and metal, the car was the victor. Its left side was crushed inward, smashing the leg closest to the impact and breaking the other.

If she hadn't had her seat belt on it could have been much worse. But Michelle is a devoted seat belt wearer and thus avoided being thrown into the windshield.

As in any emergency, there were people who responded with compassion and kindness. An unidentified man, who had been driving behind her, leapt in the car with her after it came to a stop. He held her and kept saying she would be all right, soothing her until the paramedics could arrive and the "Jaws of Life" could pry her out.

The members of the Carmel Valley Fire Department who responded were also compassionate, concerned and gentle.

Michelle was rushed to Community Hospital, where the doctors decided they had to take off the lower portion of her left leg. The blood vessels, tissue and bone were shattered beyond repair.

The one bright spot to the whole ordeal was she would keep her knee joint. That bright spot, however, soon clouded over. Gangrene set in and a week later her leg was amputated above the knee.

As with so many tragedies, this one was not without its touch of irony. Patrick, who was following behind in another car, passed the accident about 15 minutes after it occurred, but the crumpled little blue sportscar was hidden from view.

Everything appeared to be under control, so he kept on going. However, when he got home — no Michelle. He called the hospital, which was just getting ready to call him.

The next day, when he returned to the car to pick up Michelle's purse, her wallet was gone. Someone had taken the opportunity to steal it.

No one expects it to turn up again, either. Anyone who would pick through a smashed and bloody car to steal something is not the kind to return any of those hard-to-replace documents or irreplaceable pictures we all carry in our wallets.

WHEN WE heard about the accident the next morning here at The Carmel Pine Cone the reaction was of shock and disbelief.

It is next to impossible to comprehend that one so young and vital, whom we had seen healthy and happy just the day before, could actually come so close to death and lose so much in such a short time.

Of course, the blow is much harder when terrible things happen to one of your own "family" — someone you love and care for. And The Carmel Pine Cone for the past 75 years has been a family for many.

Since she started working here more than a year ago, Michelle has been and still is, an important member of this group — both personally and as a co-worker.

Though she's one of those people whose name never appears in a byline or pictured with the peninsula power brokers, her work in the accounting office is one of those things that keeps this paper going.

She also works as a bookkeeper at The Cheese Shop in Carmel Plaza, the same shop where Patrick works as a salesperson. She is equally valued and loved there.

We all know Michelle as a plucky lass who has overcome other adversities in her life, none of which have dulled her sense of humor, compassion and ability to understand other people.

She was — and still is — looking forward to working in her garden at her new home and rebuilding the little cabin where she and Patrick live.

To be so young, just beginning her adult life, and to have such a physical, emotional and financial burden placed on her could be the crushing blow to those plans.

Road. The little car seen behind her was destroyed. The Pine Cone and The Cheese Shop, where Michelle also works, are getting together to raise funds to help pay her medical bills.

To help her, all of us who are her friends are planning two benefits to help offset the medical bills. The first is scheduled for 8 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 9 at The City Limits nightclub in Salinas. Two bands, Astonished Man and Band Without Pity are scheduled to play and more may be added to the lineup. Proceeds for evening will go to Michelle Clark Rehabilitation Fund.

Another benefit, here on the peninsula, is being planned for sometime in October.

If you would like to help in the meantime, donations can be made to the Michelle Clark Rehabilitation Fund, with checks or money orders sent c/o The Carmel Pine Cone, P.O. Box G-1, Carmel, CA 93921.

Please Help Michelle Take An Important Step

As a result of her July auto accident, 24-year old Carmel Valley resident and our own Carmel-Pine Cone employee, Michelle Clark and her new husband are faced with overwhelming medical bills.

The cost of an artificial limb to replace the leg she lost and the physical therapy she will need will push the total owed over $40,000. Their medical insurance will cover only $5,000 of this amount.

Won't you help get her back on two good feet?

Mission gardens provide pope a colorful backdrop

By DAVID LELAND

BOB KRAMER surveys the landscape with an approving eye while giving a slight nod of satisfaction. His beloved garden at the Carmel Mission Basilica is doing just fine.

Kramer, who has been tending the ornate gardens at the mission for the past eight quadrangle courtyard, where the pope will greet about 3,000 people, including children from Junipero Serra School, plus handicapped people in wheelchairs.

When the pope stands on the red-bricked walkway giving his blessing to those people, he will have a backdrop that will certainly set a stunningly colorful scene against his white robe.

Less than three weeks before John Paul's arrival, two 30-foot tall bougainvilleas have already exploded into life, but there's still more to come, says Kramer.

The San Diego Red and Barbara Karst colored bushes — both more than a quarter-century old — are already vibrant, but will continue to bloom up until the papal visit.

"I haven't fed, pruned or watered them in three years," says Kramer, gesturing toward the colorful scene. "That's because it's an old-fashioned garden."

Kramer keeps a watchful eye on tourists who pose for pictures next to either of those bougainvilleas. If he sees anyone pick one of the precious petals, he is quick to give a gentle scolding on why the flowers should be left alone.

An "old-fashioned garden," Kramer says, is one that uses only species plants, or those that are not hybrids. In other words, a pure garden.

More than 200 varieties of plants, trees and flowers line the spacious mission grounds, Kramer says. Many of these, such as a pure-bred fuchsia from Costa Rica, would be hard to find today.

"The garden's got a lot of plants you'd be hard pressed to find in a nursery," says Kramer, who gives full credit to mission restorer Harry Downie.

"This is the way Harry would like it," explains Kramer, gesturing to the lush vegetation. "I just carry on."

KRAMER SAYS the mission's gardens

CARMEL MISSION gardener Bob Kramer has paid special attention this summer to the colorful bougainvilleas that will provide a years, says the burst of color emanating from the various plants is to be expected.

"It's a natural garden, it knows what to do," he explains. "I just stand back and watch it grow. The flowers are right on schedule."

But you can bet that Kramer is more than a little happy that the flowers are having such a good year, blooming just in time for the arrival of Pope John Paul II Sept. 17 at 1 p.m.

And Kramer's very agreeable in giving guided tours to the spot where his work will receive the most attention when the pope pays his visit.

That would be the south wall in the are receiving the same tender-loving care that they always do in preparation for the papal visit.

Dressed in a long-sleeved shirt, wearing either a straw hat or a "digger" hat from Australia — which protects him from the sun — Kramer cuts a pleasant sight to both churchgoers and tourists who wander the historic mission grounds.

To say he's content would be an understatement. Before his current job, Kramer served for 12 years as a purchasing agent in a Pittsburgh hospital. "It was ulcer-type work," he remembers.

After picking up and moving to Carmel Valley, he knew he had to do something different than continue his job buying supplies for a hospital.

"I had to get outside and work," he says. "I got a lucky break and here I am."

Kramer says the climate surrounding the mission grounds couldn't be better, with its temperate conditions.

"Fog is my best friend, it enables the flowers to look vibrant," he explains. "I couldn't really ask for anything to be different here."

As Kramer surveys the courtyard that will see people standing shoulder to shoulder as Pope John Paul makes his appearance, he gives a pleased smile. Yes, the flowers are right on schedule.

FIFTH DISTRICT Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman is seeking applicants to serve on the newly formed Monterey County Film Commission.

The primary goal of the commission will be to attract film production.

Qualified applicants representing environmental groups or the hospitality industry (categories of applicants were divided between all supervisors) and residing in the 5th District should contact Strasser Kauffman's office at 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, CA 93940 or call 649-6515.

The 5th District includes the Aguajito, Skyline Forest, parts of Monterey and Pebble Beach, Carmel Valley, Carmel, Big Sur and the Toro areas of the county.

Congressmen fight for states' rights on coast

REP LEON E. Panetta, who has been leading the effort to restore the role of coastal states in decisions relating to federal offshore oil and gas drilling, joined Reps. Mike Lowry, Andy Ireland and 16 other House members Thursday in introducing a revised bill which is expected to become the vehicle for Congressional action on the issue this year.

Lowry, who heads the House Subcommittee on Oceanography, said his panel would take up the legislation soon, possibly as early as September.

The bill, like a measure introduced by Panetta earlier this year, would amend the Coastal Zone Management Act (CZMA) to ensure that federal activities which directly affect the three-mile state coastal zone be consistent with federally-approved state coastal-management plans, regardless of whether they take place on land, within the three-mile zone, or beyond the coastal zone.

The primary difference between the original Panetta bill and the new legislation is the new measure's different method of defining what constitutes a direct effect on the coastal zone.

"This is a critical step forward in the effort to guarantee the rights of coastal states in the offshore leasing process," Panetta said. "Congress has always intended to reserve a significant role for the coastal states in managing their shorelines. Unfortunately, this Administration, which has frequently voiced support for the rights of the states, has had a blind spot on this particular issue."

Panetta noted that the CZMA, enacted in 1972, was intended to provide states a meaningful role in federal offshore activities. However, the Supreme Court ruled in 1984 that the law, as written, applied only to activities taking place within the three-mile coastal zone and not to activities landward or seaward of the coastal zone.

"It is the view of most authorities on this issue in Congress that the Supreme Court misconstrued Congressional intent on this matter," Panetta said. "This legislation reasserts the original intent, which is to apply the consistency rule to all federal activities having a direct effect on the coastal zone, regardless of where they occur."

Panetta and Ireland chair a bipartisan coalition of House and Senate members from coastal states who are working to promote a balanced national policy on offshore oil and gas leasing.

Forest Hill Park was city's first

FOREST HILL Park, located at the intersection of Camino Del Monte and Junipero in Carmel-by-the-Sea, is just one of the lovely natural settings available to the community.

Forest Hill Park is designed as a refuge for young and old alike. The theme is one of natural vegetation settings designed into and around recreational activities. It is the first recreational park in Carmel. The park features shuffleboard courts, horseshoe pits, a 4,200 foot par course physical fitness trail, a children's playground, and tennis courts. The tennis courts are located in the northeast portion of the park near Lorca Lane.

The land on which the park is located was originally owned by the old Forest Hill School and deeded to the city of Carmel-by-the-Sea in 1941. The area originally was a shallow, forested canyon with a small creek channel running northeast to southwest. Portions of the old creek still exist in the park today.

Birth mothers group meets every month

A BIRTH mothers support group meets once a month at the Childrens Services Center in Monterey.

Birth mothers are women who have given their children up for adoption; the group allows these women to share their feelings with others, according to Terri Livingston, who has been a member of the year-old group.

"There are a lot of women out there...and there's a lot of pain involved," she said. "This gives them a chance to talk about it. We're not a search group, but we have information on it."

The support group meets at 7 p.m. on the last Wednesday of each month at the center at 484 Lighthouse in New Monterey. More information can be obtained by calling either Carol Bishop or Gayle Ward at Childrens Services Center of Monterey County, 649-3033.

Middle school sets summer orientation

CARMEL MIDDLE School will host a Summer Orientation today for all sixth-graders and their parents.

The orientation will be held from 10:20 a.m. to noon Thursday, Aug. 27 at the school, located one-half mile east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road.

Parents and their children should assemble at the school's cafeteria to pick up a class schedule and for an introduction by school staff.

For information call the school at 624-2785.

Searching for the spirit

WITH NO money in their pockets, Los Angeles residents Judy Shils (above) and her travelling partner, Gina Minervini, set out from San Francisco and will literally work their way to New York City to prove a point. "We're in search of the true American spirit," Shils said, as the duo made a one-day stop in Carmel. During the cross-country trip, Shils and Minervini plan to get jobs in each town plus rely on the generosity of others for food, money and lodging. Other pairs are also attempting the trip, but on different routes. They all intend to meet on the East Coast, share their experiences and see who came out on top on the basis of a complicated point system (getting your mug in the local paper is one way of scoring points). (Mac McDonald photo.)

Neighborhood association changes its name

THE NEIGHBORS of Cherry Hall Association have decided to change the name of the organization.

The decision was reached during the regular monthly business meeting Aug. 3, which was followed by a candid discussion of Carmel's future growth as viewed by Carmel Planning Commissioner Howard C. Nieman, Jr.

The name of the association will be changed to Carmel-by-the-Sea Neighbor's Association (NE). The name change was necessary to avoid further confusion with the Carl Cherry Foundation, and to retain the neighborhood theme, which is one of the prime motivations for the association.

While discussing many details of the planning process, Nieman pointed out the major dilemma faced by the planning commission. Unless the residents voice their views on issues before the commission, the commissioners must vote the way they think the residents would like them to vote. Nieman reiterated that his desire is to cast his vote in accordance with the residents' wishes.

As a result of the evening's discussion, the association formed a committee, chaired by association vice president Stephen Poohar, to review plans for development of the Hayward Lumber Yard site with particular emphasis on density, and present the association's views to planning commissioners.

For further information about the organization contact Woody Salmonson at 624-5576.

Bits & Pieces

ON MARCH 5th of this year we wrote: "Home shopping stocks go up and down like home-made rockets, and all those genetic engineering stocks may never splice big profits to their big promises, but tax reform is telling you this loud and clear: companies that specialize in everyday consumer goods will benefit most in the new environment."

We recently checked the price of that very famous home shopping stock that was selling for as much as $47 back in the early spring. If you loved it at that cockamamy price, you're going to really adore it at its recent quote of $13.

On April 23 of this year we wrote: "...there is less ownership of common stock by both large institutions and individuals than there was 10 or 15 years ago...stocks are going up, among other reasons, because the supply is shrinking."

Last week the market closed above 2700 on the Dow.

was played up on the evening news as a potential disaster.

On April 30 we wrote: "...discipline, discipline, discipline...you can't learn patience or discipline if your concept of investing is based on getting in or out of the market before the other folks figure out how crafty you are."

"It seems to us that investing in stocks is nothing more than buying your personal share of the most solid businesses in our economy."

Finally, just a few weeks ago we wrote: "Utility stocks are income vehicles. People buy them for dividends...if people perceive that interest rates are going down...they lock in a good rate when they buy the stock. The wave of buying causes the stock price to go up."

Lo and behold, dear readers, the prices of those utility stocks have been rising.

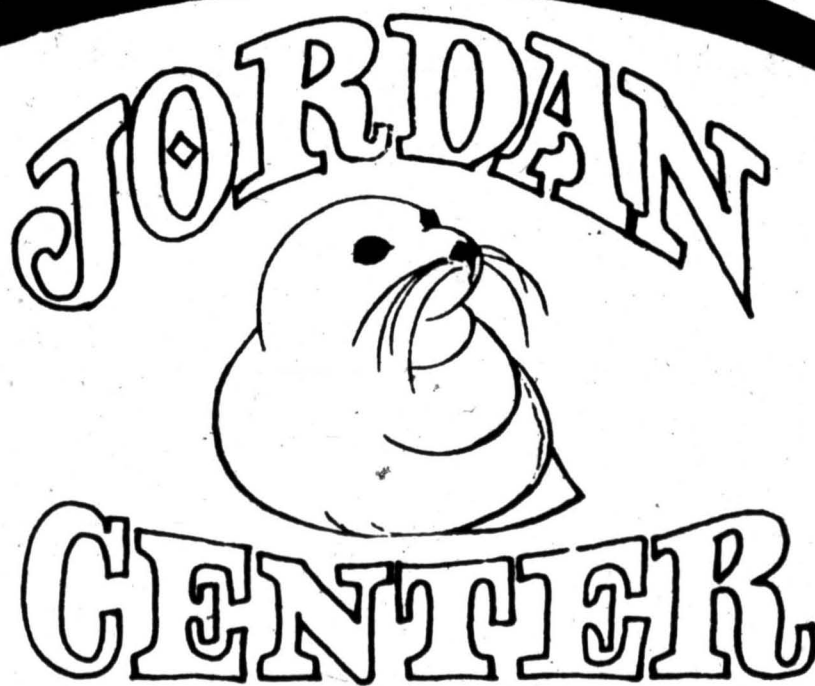

Someday the Bull Market will be over and interest rates will go back up. And that new Bear market may last for years, as well as that new era of continually rising interest rates. Until then, the trend indicates otherwise.

Always remember: the trend is your friend.

Also on April 23rd we wrote: "...you understand that at these levels the market can fall 100 points in two days and that represents something like a 4 percent drop."

And also last week a 40-point down day

CARMEL HERITAGE

By Betty Barron

Letter from Oxford

RISING MAJESTICALLY on the slumbering landscape of England the gentle spires of Oxford University are an inspiring sight to the traveler. To the student, a triumph.

Historically, in the first years of Oxford, the students were looked upon as renegades and interlopers by the townspeople. Pitched battles were not uncommon. There were many deaths, many injuries. But, the colleges were built, one by one, and grew in stature. Students continued to come. Oxford became a jewel in academia, a symbol, a force and a voice in England.

I wandered around the quads and walkways of the colleges after each lecture, relating the spoken word to the physical and visual. This, my fourth visit to Oxford, proved to be most revealing and rewarding.

For Carmel Heritage I sought to relate Oxford's architecture to ours in Carmel. Perhaps a tower, an arch, a garden? All of these and more.

Doorways seemed to be the key.

Simple weathered wooden doors with crusty hinges and latches reminded me of Carmel. Many of our gates and doors, though smaller and less impressive, have the same dignity. I was reminded of Carmel Presbyterian as I scanned the facade of the Church of St. Philip and St. James along Woodstock Road.

Worn stone steps such as Blackwells, Oxford's fine old bookstore bulging with thousands of volumes, show the imprint of the centuries of students who have stepped across the threshold. In our Court of the Golden Bough the stones are less worn, but reveal the tread of the curious visitor. The age-old corner of Cornmarket and Ship Streets in Oxford boasts a wooden frame building reaching back to medieval England, reminiscent too, of the Golden Bough. Evidence of hundreds of years of graceful aging are the pitted foundation stones of St. Mary's College along High Street and the chipped bricks of almost every house along Banbury Road or St. Algate.

It was the Saxons who founded this city, although the Romans had traveled through on many occasions, never building a camp because they distrusted the location, the junction of two rivers, where their troops might be trapped. The colleges came much later, the first, University College, in the 13th Century.

And, somehow Oxford drew the notables to its site. Richard the Lion Heart was born in Oxford. Keats came and found a home at Oxford. Others: Dr. Samuel Johnson, Richard Burton, the explorer, and more recently, Richard Burton, the actor, the Duke of Windsor, Evelyn Waugh. There were 16 Oxford graduates in President Kennedy's administration. And, when in 1933 the young men of the Oxford debating society declared that they would never go to war for King and country, the entire world responded, some in awe, some in approval, some in condemnation.

As I turned the pages of the histories of Oxford's growth, architecture melded with archaeology, philosophy with physics, poetry with paintings. Pizarro is at the Ashmolean, and Shelley is still breathing along the Broad Walk and through the trees of Christ Church Meadow. And, was that Lewis Carroll seen gliding along the river from Oxford to

A TOUCH of Olde England in modern-day Oxford is seen in this optician's shop...

...AND A touch of Olde England in modern-day Carmel can be found at the corner of Monte Verde Street and Ocean Avenue. (Photos by Betty Barron and Mac McDonald.)

Godstow telling his tale of Alice in Wonderland?

Crossing Magdalen Bridge I found that the gentle Cherwell River still washes the trailing willow branches as its ripples caress the banks and reluctantly join the Thames. From Boars Hill the pinnacles of Oxford still prick the sky like silver needles in the early morning sun and glow golden and warm and shadowy in the sunset. Those slender spires speak of the past...and are a signal for the future.

Whatever you come to Oxford to find, whatever you learn, it is never enough. You know that you should linger longer.

- Chambers Lane - from Carmel Valley Road to Center Street.
- Paso Hondo - from Carmel Valley Road to end.
- Paso Mediano - from Paso Hondo to Paso Hondo.
- Paso Cresta - from Paso Hondo to Paso Hondo.

Work on these roads began on Aug. 17 and should be completed by Aug. 28.

McClain said traffic will be subject to control by flagmen with possible short delays. Even though flagmen are not always present after the roads are surfaced, the roads are posted "Loose Gravel." Speeds in excess of 25 miles per hour can cause rocks to fly up and damage vehicles.

The application of this type of road surface reduces maintenance costs, extends the "life" of the road and improves the driving characteristics of the road, said McClain.

Rec department recruiting 'leaders'

THE CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA Recreation Department is now recruiting leaders to work in the After School Program.

The department is looking for enthusiastic and dedicated individuals to provide leadership and supervision for youth 5 to 12 years old at the Carmel River Elementary School. Special Interest Instructors are also sought. Instructors who can teach a specialty program in movement, art, games and crafts for preschoolers and youth are invited to submit their proposals.

Job announcements and applications are available at the Carmel-by-the-Sea Recreation Department located at the corner of Fourth Avenue and Torres Street, or call 626-1255.

MEMORIAL FUND IS NEARING MARK

Dr. Cuthbert Powell of Denver, Miss Josephine Culbertson and A.M. Bragg of Carmel gave the thermometer a shove this week to the tune of $20.

Do you realize how near we are to the top? Just 279 more loving thoughts expressed in hard cash. Too bad to have to gauge love in dollars and cents, but so far on this ear-thplane, we haven't been able to produce a typewriter or an aeroplane or a fountain pen by thinking about it, so the filthy lucre must be provided.

Just 279 more thoughts of our boys who went eagerly singing over the top.

Just 279 more hats to be doffed to the col-ors.

Just 279 more thrills when we think of the lines:

"And the star-spangled banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

100 SEARCH FOR MISSING HUNTER

More than 100 searchers are combining Carmel Valley for Gus Wolter, who has been missing since Wednesday night. According to information received by the Pine Cone as it went to press, Wolter was hunting boar and deer with Jack Montgomery of Carmel near Wolter's Carmel Valley ranch Wednesday evening. Seeing lights near his woodpile Wolters went to investigate, telling Mont-gomery to stay at the cattle guard down the road, until he returned. After two hours of waiting Montgomery saw a grey sedan coming at high speed from the direction Wolter had gone. Montgomery notified police, and since then CCC's, members of the fire warden camp and friends and relatives of Wolter have been searching the vicinity but have found no trace of Wolter or his dog, who had accompanied him when he was last seen by Montgomery.

APPLICATION FOR BED TAX PERMITS

The office of the City Clerk will commence next Wednesday to mail to operators of all hotels, motels, inns, rooming houses, and other places which rent accommodations to transients, applications for hostelry tax permits, so that these places may be licensed by October 1 to collect the 3% "bed tax" recently enacted by the city council.

The tax, when effective, is expected to pro-duce $24,500 during the fiscal year 1962-63, since returns will flow in only in the last six months. In the ensuing fiscal year, 1963-64, original projections anticipate nearly $50,000 dollars, which is encumbered entirely for capital outlay purposes, at least 50% of which shall be for objects set forth in the city's general plan.

CARMEL RED CROSS PREPARES DISASTER PLAN IN WAKE OF FIRE

"We're under the gun more than ever now," said Carmel Red Cross Executive Director Jean Snow this week, referring to an intensified effort to formulate disaster plans for the area.

The Marble-Cone forest fire that menaced Carmel Valley residents is contained, but the prospect of flooding is the latest concern of Red Cross officials.

"Gearing up for the flood is the next step," Mrs. Snow noted, explaining the action is necessary because 94 percent of the Big Sur watershed was destroyed by the fire.

WINERY DOESN'T MEAN END OF HACIENDA HAY

Approval of a winery on the seven-acre site where Hacienda Hay and Feed is now located doesn't mean the end of the feed store.

Robert Zobel, owner of Hacienda Hay and Feed on Carmel Valley Poultry Ranch, said he hopes to relocate his business close to its original site.

"We're land-bound now and need more land," Zobel told the Pine Cone/Outlook. "I will definitely relocate the business, but I need at least 20 acres. I'll either lease or rent some property."

Monterey County Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon approved a use permit Aug. 19 to allow Robert Brower of Carmel to operate his Chateau Julien Winery at the site. The winery will have an initial production capacity of 10,000 cases of wine per year, which is to be expanded to 25,000 cases per year later.

IT SEEMS HIGHLY UNLIKELY YOU'LL EVER NEED TO DRIVE A CAR THAT CAN GO 132 MPH, DAY AND NIGHT,
FOR 62,000 MILES STRAIGHT.

BUT JUST IN CASE YOU DO.

Late last year, three standard-production Saab 9000s were taken to the Alabama International Speedway in Talladega, Alabama for an unusual test drive:

Twenty days straight at top speed.

The result? Twenty-one new world and international records including the highest average speed (132 mph) ever recorded for a production car driven this distance.

Of course, you probably shouldn't directly apply these results to your everyday driving. But the fact remains, not one, but all three Saabs finished. Which would certainly seem to say something about their performance and endurance abilities.

Abilities you're invited to test drive yourself.

Albeit over a shorter distance. And preferably

Auto art dominates

WITH 37 years of practice in the elegance of automobile art the Concours d'Elegance has once again brought together spectacular cars, spectators, car fans and friends from all over this country, and, for this season, Canada, England, France and Japan as well.

Private parties started as soon as out-of-town car owners and friends arrived and continued for days. Saturday evening there was a special reception for the 70 judges (and companions), officials of United Way and the Pebble Beach Co. Serving as greeters were Al and Deanne Adolph, Jack and Shirley Holt, Bill and Jill Golden, Wayne and Patricia Adams, and Christopher Bock, who served as regional coordinator as well. A huge cool classic car carved in ice dominated the hors d'oeuvres table in The Lodge Library.

A dinner for the judges followed in the Pebble Beach Room, while over at the Beach Club there was an evening of dinner and dancing. On Sunday it was down to the more serious business of carrying off the day — starting with breakfasts and briefings — it soon was "on with the show." An informal post-show party on Sunday night gave the exhibitors a chance to wind-down from all the excitement.

Club XIX was an ideal vantage point for watching the runway show and ideal for entertaining friends (at $200 per). Peggy Compton and Andrew Spranza (who just returned from England and didn't give their usual Concours party), brought as guests Leland and Gloria Dake (of Pebble), Ed and Elena Keith (of Pebble and Paris), and Heidi and Berte Hoffmann (of Paris).

At the next tables Mrs. Alfred Castle entertained the Don Palas and several members of the Lyle Cash family. The Finis Connors' table was inside, and upstairs Mr. and Mrs. Tom Oliver and Mr. and Mrs. John Smart were hosts at tables on the Lounge Terrace. Spotted admiring the auto art on display behind The Lodge were the David Factors and the Terry Melchers.

Pebble weather was perfect and people happily parked far and wide to walk to The Lodge to attend this annual event benefiting United Way and the Pebble Beach Foundation.

LIVE POETRY/JAZZ AT PG ART CENTER

The Gill Gallery at the Pacific Grove Art Center was turned into a mini-theater for the considerable talent of Tom Oleniack, who brought to life the raffish back-alley world of poet Charles Bukowski.

The audience, surrounded by art-filled walls, was treated to the poetry by a fine thespian who was accompanied by the contemporary jazz music of the Bob Phillips Trio.

It has been said that Mr. Bukowski's verse at once pie-eyed, romantic and grittily realistic, is also funny, raunchy, lyrical and is at its best spoken aloud to good barroom jazz. The local audience was delighted that Tom found time in his busy schedule to visit Pacific Grove.

Tom is a self-described "gypsy actor" who works the national Actor's Equity circuit. San Diego's Old Globe Theatre, the Santa Barbara Rep Theatre, Oregon Shakespeare Festival, Alaska Rep, the Cleveland Playhouse and sometimes gets as far as Pennsylvania.

The evening began with a wine tasting reception to sip with an array of exotic foods and benefitted Cafe Poets and the PG Art Center. Arrangements were made by Barbara F. Murphy (Tom's sister), who has previously chaired other cafe poetry readings.

ELDON DEDINI SPARKS SALON VI

Can you imagine waking up every morning and being faced with the task of being funny? That would be a frightening, if not an impossible thought for most of us. However, Eldon Dedini has unlimited talent and many years of practice in producing cartoons that bring a smile and a chuckle to readers all over the country. So, that daily morning task of creativity is in proper hands.

The New Yorker and Playboy magazines are only two of many publications that are eager to titillate readers with his humorous thoughts and sketches of artful wit.

Mr. Dedini (of Carmel) was guest artist at Salon VI Sunday afternoon at La Mirada in Monterey. He stimulated both the intellect and the funnybone of guests by showing examples of his work and explaining the procedure he follows with his publishers.

Although eating is a necessity of life, so is laughter essential for good health. We are grateful that Mr. Dedini chose cartooning instead of farming as a profession.

Among the 60 guests were fellow-cartoonists Gus Arriola, Alex Anderson and Chuck Scardina.

The fun-and-fundraising Jesters of the M.P. Museum of Art provided dainty tea sandwiches, cookies and tea in the elegant dining room of La Mirada. Polly Kenaston was chairwoman of the Salon.

Last week a heart-y-and-healthy lunch began at noon and was followed by a choice of golf or tennis. Master of ceremonies, genial Stephen Magyar, gave a few helpful explanations about golf. For instance, he defined a driving range as "a place where golfers go to get all the good shots out of their systems." A feeling of eagerness to tee-off and prove him wrong was felt around each of the four tables of ten.

August Escobar of Vintners International proved that wine is good for the heart by presenting a check for $2,000 to Gerald J. Sirocky, executive director of the American Heart Association.

At a time of tough market conditions Dave Mills and Stan Savitz coordinated an agri-biz support of two vans of produce to be sold for AHA and for which a $9,137 check was awarded. Those who extended this generosity were: Steinbeck Country Marketing, Mission Packing, Boskovich Farms, Frank Capurro & Son, Telles Ranch, Mann Packing Co., Salinas Marketing Co-op, Merrill Farm, Crown Packing Co., Fresh Western Marketing, Transfax Distribution System, D'Arrigo Bros., American Farms, Mills Distributing Co., Pacific Fresh Marketing, Jack T. Bailie Co., and a "Famous Anonymous Person."

Media Heart Day chairs were Bill Brown and Mac McDonald (who was unable to attend). Mr. Brown made all hearts happy when he announced his welcome speech was only 30 seconds long to allow more time on the courts and fairways. After a few seconds for a free cholesterol screening test, those hard-working media folk lined up for golf and tennis.

The 11th Annual Open Heart Open Golf Tournament is planned for Sept. 18 and with limited entries accepted it is best to call AHA soon to reserve at $150 each. Great prizes!

PARTY TO HONOR ROYALTY

The social season has begun with a fall flourish as you all know and adding to the sparkle will be a party given by Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood and Consul General Faltz of Luxembourg and San Francisco to honor their highnesses, Crown Prince Henri and Crown Princess Maria Teresa on Sept. 18th.

The crown prince (who has visited the Monterey Peninsula previously), and the princess are in the area to attend a reception for artist Francoise-Marie Thein the following afternoon at Zantman Galleries in Carmel. Mrs. Thein is the wife of Col. Thein, chief aide to the crown prince. Pepe Maestres of Florida, father of the princess, has played golf in the AT&T.

DANCE YOUR SOCKS OFF AT KAZU'S SOCK HOP

An old-fashioned end-of-summer sock hop-dance party to benefit KAZU-FM is set for Saturday, Aug. 29 at the American Legion Hall in Monterey.

The "Don't Have to Go Back to School" event will feature dance hits from the mid '50s to the mid '60s, utilizing eight of KAZU's most popular announcers who will bring their own 45s and 33s to play.

Prizes will be offered to the best dancers and the person wearing the most outrageous socks.

The hop begins at 9 p.m. at the hall, which is located at Jefferson and High Streets in Monterey and offers a full bar. Admission is $3 and will be limited to those 21 and older.

KAZU is a non-commercial, listener-supported station in Pacific Grove at 90.3 FM featuring an eclectic variety of programming, including oldies and other hard-to-find music.

IRAN/CONTRA INVESTIGATIONS DISCUSSED BY DANIEL SHEEHAN

Daniel Sheehan, general council to the Christic Institute, will be the guest speaker at a special meeting of the New Forum on Monday, Aug. 31, at noon at the Monterey Sheraton.

Daniel Sheehan has led three years of investigations into the criminal activities of high-ranking officials in the Reagan

Musical student

EDWARD MCGOWAN of Carmel participated in the Boston University Tanglewood Institute, a group of programs concentrating on musical study and performance at the Tanglewood Music Center in Lenox, Mass. McGowan, a senior at the Interlochen School for Arts in Interlochen, Mich. and a student of flute for eight years, is the son of Joseph and Anne McGowan of Carmel.

Administration. These investigations have uncovered 25 years of secret wars, drug trafficking and assassinated political enemies. The result is a lawsuit against the U.S. Government to expose the "secret team" behind the Iran dealings and the Contras. Sheehan says, "By any definition, these defendants, alleged merchants of drugs and terrorism, represent the very epitome of organized crime, but on a global scale."

The Christic Institute, an interfaith, law and public interest center, specializes in investigations, legal work and public education. Past cases include the Karen Silkwood case, Greensboro Civil Rights, Three-Mile Island and Wounded Knee.

Reservations for Daniel Sheehan's lecture and the luncheon are $13 and must be made in advance by writing: The New Forum, P.O. Box 22214, Carmel, CA 93922; or by calling The New Forum office at 625-9967.

LOCAL HEART ASSOCIATION PLANS GOLF TOURNAMENT

The local American Heart Association will launch its 1987-88 development campaign with the Open Heart Open Golf Tournament at Corral de Tierra Country Club Friday, Sept. 18 at 12:30 p.m. All golfers are invited to call the AHA for a reservation. The cost is $150.

The low net golfer at the OHO will win a Lake Tahoe mini-vacation with two nights at Harrah's, a meal and a show. Flite winners will come home with golf bags, passes to the AT&T Pro-Am, wine, and other items.

A group of Salinas Valley agri-businessmen began the OHO support by donating two van loads of lettuce and mixed vegetables to market on the East Coast. This effort coordinated by Dave Mills and Stan Savitz of Salinas raised $9,137, "so the OHO is starting off with a big boost from agri-business," Dave Mills said.

"At the time of the produce solicitations, the valley shippers were confronted with tough market conditions, so Stan and I were overwhelmed with their generous response to our request," Mills said.

Mills said that the OHO committee hopes to exceed the $21,000 net from the OHO last year. "We're adding some live entertainment and have a long-drive contest for the area pros and the OHO golfers at the end of the tournament play. I'm looking for a full field of golfers out there to support the heart association on the 18th."

MADD PUBLIC FORUM & FUND-RAISING EVENT

MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Drivers) will hold an all-day fund-raising event Sept. 3 at Chuck E. Cheese, 957 North Main St., Salinas.

Just mention that you want to support MADD when you call or come in to order food or soft drinks and MADD will receive 20 percent of the money you spend.

At 5:30 p.m. there will be a short board meeting and election of board officers. Only current MADD chapter members are eligible to vote.

At 6 p.m. Don Farmer, chief probation officer for Monterey County, will present a forum on the proposed electronic home detention system.

Back to the beach

THE CARMEL Abalone Club (AKA the 21-Up Club) hosted a volleyball beach party and tournament at Carmel River Beach Sunday. According to organizers more than 30 people showed up, which they termed a good turnout considering the Concours d'Elegance and the Historic Automobile Races at Laguna Seca. The party-goers included two visiting Frenchmen who happened on the beach. Next up for the Abalone Club will be a nighttime event at Carmel Mission Ranch Barn Nov. 13 (Friday the 13th).

"Good Grief in the Classroom" manual recently published specifically for local schools.

"The workshop was well received and additional training sessions are being planned," said Starr.

The manual and a videotape of the seminar are available at the Resource Center.

For more information, call the Hospice Resource Center at 649-1772.

PACIFIC GROVE CHAMBER OPENS UP GOLF TOURNAMENT

Due to the popularity of the "Flight of the Monarch" golf tournament scheduled for Aug. 30, the chamber has changed the ruling on players needing to have an established handicap. The tournament is now open to all golfers. It will be played on the East Course at Rancho Canada Golf Club.

Applications may be obtained at the chamber office or by calling 373-3304.

The public is invited to join the golfers and their guests for the awards banquet which will include an auction offering thousands of dollars worth of items, including airline tickets, vacation packages, wines, dinners and many other fine items. Tickets at $25 per person for the awards banquet and auction are available at the Pacific Grove chamber office or by calling 373-3304.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR NAMED FOR MONTEREY CULTURAL COUNCIL

Roderick L. Dewar, president of the Monterey County

Cultural Council, announced the appointment of Consuelo Underwood as Executive Director Aug. 3. Underwood was selected from 71 applicants for the position. She will administer council programs, such as the re-granting program, that provide support and technical services to county arts organizations. MCCC is the designated partner of the State Local Partnership Program of the California Arts Council. It is a non-profit, cultural service organization committed to the promotion and development of the highest quality arts programs throughout Monterey County.

Prior to the appointment, Underwood developed an arts committee and visual arts program for the city of Concord. She received two National Endowment for the Arts grants for public art and design projects and developed a cable television program on the arts and exhibition program entitled, Artspots. Concord recently received a Mayor's Livability award for its art programs. For three years she was the arts director for the city of Spokane, Wash., and was Director of Falkirk Center for the city of San Rafael for three years. A graduate of Mills College, Underwood has been active in her Alumni Association activities. She was a member of the Spokane Chamber's Speakers' Bureau and was awarded a Spokane YWCA leadership award.

Association's 43rd Annual National School Traffic Safety Poster Program.

The program is sponsored annually in this area by the California State Automobile Association to promote awareness of traffic safety through poster designs illustrating safe pedestrian behavior and safe bicycle riding habits.

Veronica Kelleher, Michelle Gaudoin, Courtney Porter and Gina Anderson earned commendations for their illustrations of the slogan "Keep from Between Parked Cars." Anthony Pirog and Allison Blust earned Merit Citations for their illustrations of the slogan "Keep From Between Parked Cars." Sean Brennan received a Merit Citation for his illustration of the slogan "Bicyclists Stop Before Entering Traffic" and Jeff Walker received a Merit Citation for his illustration of the slogan "Tailgaters Have No Way Out."

The awards were presented at the school assembly by Deane Ramoni, assistant manager of the CSAA Monterey district office.

All entries from this area were sent to AAA headquarters in Falls Church, VA, for judging in the 43rd Annual National AAA Poster Program. There were nearly 64,032 entries from 3,213 schools in 44 states as well as the District of Columbia and Canada. The winners were competing with other students in similar grades in the state of California, Canada, Colorado, Iowa, Nevada, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Virginia and West Virginia.

120 CAL POLY STUDENTS CHOSEN FOR 1987-88 VAN DYKE SCHOLARSHIPS

One hundred and twenty continuing and new students at Cal Poly have been selected to receive J.W. Van Dyke Scholarships during the 1987-88 academic year.

The $600 scholarships, which are being awarded for the eighth year to Cal Poly students, are made possible by an endowment established in the name of the late J.W. Van Dyke, former chairman of the board of the Atlantic Refining Co., now the Atlantic Richfield Co.

Recipients are chosen by the university's Scholarship Committee on the basis of financial need, academic standing, interest in their chosen field of study, and school and community activities. Preference is given to the children of Atlantic Richfield employees with more than 10 years of company service.

Cal Poly students who will receive the Van Dyke Scholarships during 1987-88, with their hometown, year in school, and major, include:

Moir Keene, Carmel Valley, sophomore, biological sciences, and Maria Schuh, Big Sur, graduate student, education.

Now in its 85th year of service to the state, Cal Poly is part of the California State University system. It offers bachelor's degree programs in 57 fields of study and the master's in 15.

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE AND RELATED DISORDERS ASSOCIATION OPENS OFFICE AND NAMES EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR FOR MONTEREY COUNTY CHAPTER

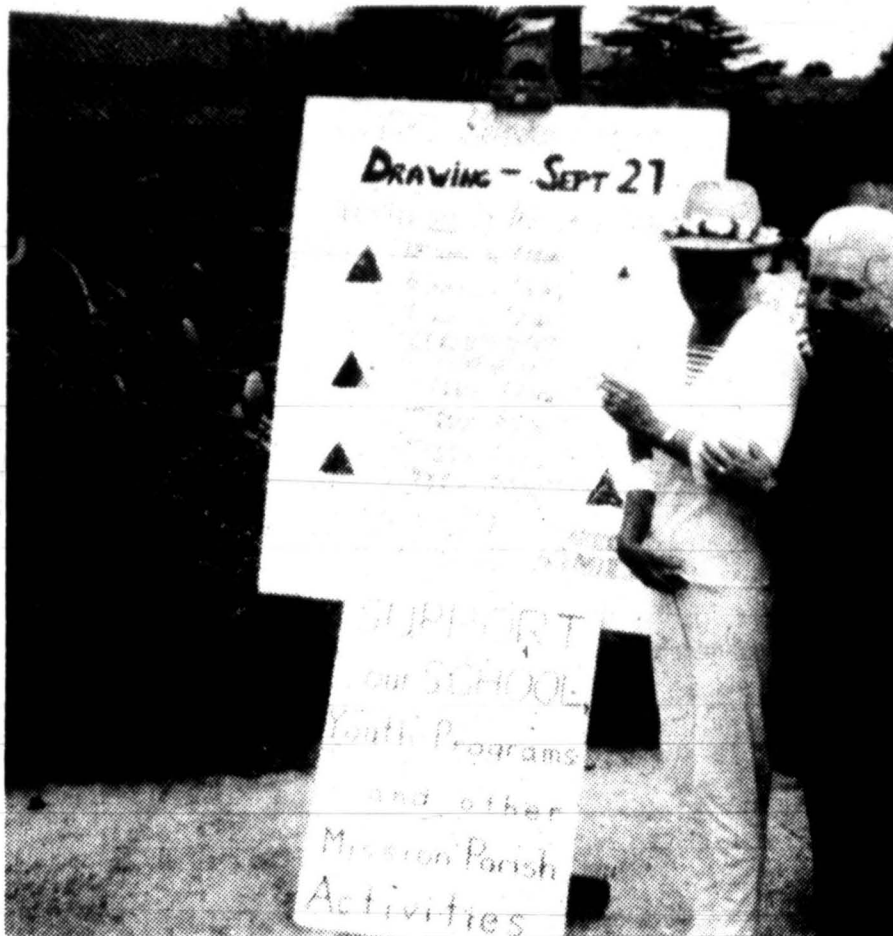

This spring the ADRDA Monterey County Chapter opened its headquarters office in Monteeay at St. James' Episcopal Church parish hall, 381 High St. As one of more than 160 chapters which belong to the National Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association, the Monterey County Chapter works for victims of progressive, irreversible brain disease.

Formed in 1980, ADRDA is the national not-for-profit organization dedicated to research into the cause, cure and treatment of Alzheimer's Disease and related disorders and to providing support and assistance to the afflicted patients and their families. With over 1,000 family support groups nationwide, the chapters and affiliates provide information and service at the grassroots level.

Carol Imwalle-Sherer was named the executive director of this local chapter. In addition to her professional qualifications including having been a registered nurse and social worker in Monterey County, she is also a family member caregiver.

Alzheimer's Disease afflicts 2.5 million people and takes 120,000 lives annually. In Monterey County there are an estimated 2,000 afflicted patients, most of whom are living at home with their families. ADRDA gives us more than just hope by being active in affecting national legislation for support of long term care services.

For more information please call ADRDA Monterey County Chapter 647-9890.

The Mercedes-Benz 190E 2.3. A 29 minute test drive will show you why it's worth $29,000*.

Before your test drive begins, pretend you've never heard of the now famous Mercedes-Benz resale value. Pretend you've never known about the vast array of standard features that are included in the total price, and that you don't know anything about the exceptional service offered by the Mercedes-Benz dealer network.

Now the car stands alone. On its own merits. In the next half hour the car alone will have to convince you of its value.

From the moment your test drive begins, you'll enjoy an incredibly smooth journey. Credit is due the Multilink independent rear suspension system, pioneered by Mercedes-Benz. You'll feel the smooth surge of power that can only come from 2.3 liters and 4 cylinders of Mercedes-Benz engineering genius. You'll see it in the attention to detail in the design. And in the sheer quality of the finish.

For a more comprehensive test drive, talk to us soon. And discover one of the more satisfying ways of investing $29,000.

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for the East and Gulf Coasts for the 190E 2.3 is $29,200. For the West Coast, the retail price is $29,630.

ROUNDUP

Aquarium recruits volunteers

The Monterey Bay Aquarium is accepting applications for its guide training course. Anyone age 14 and older is welcome to volunteer.

As a non-profit, self-supporting institution, the aquarium relies heavily on volunteer guides to interpret its many exhibits. Knowledge of marine biology, oceanography and other marine sciences is gained through an intensive 45-hour training course.

The 16-week course begins Sept. 1. College credits are available through San Jose State University and Monterey Peninsula College. Call 649-6466 for more information.

PG golf tourney sign-ups

Applications are now being taken for the Flight of the Monarch golf tournament Sunday, Aug. 30, sponsored by the Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce.

This is a two-man best ball competition with prizes including a Chevrolet Z28 IROC-Z and two tickets on PSA Airlines anywhere they fly.

In a recent change, the tournament is now open to all players and no registered handicap is needed. Call 373-3304 for application information.

Free shuttle operates daily

The free shuttle serving downtown Monterey, Fisherman's Wharf, Cannery Row and the Monterey Bay Aquarium now runs daily through Labor Day, Sept. 7.

Hours of operation are 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. The free shuttle runs approximately every 20 minutes from the East Custom House Garage located at Tyler Street and Del Monte Avenue, Monterey. All-day parking is available in the East Garage for $3. The shuttle itself is free.

Additionally, information on the shuttle is broadcast on radio frequency 1610 AM.

Monterey Library screens films

Filmshows is a program of the Monterey Public Library, and features short films screened free of charge at 2 p.m. each Thursday.

The Thursday, Aug. 27 program is scheduled to include Alexander Liberman: A Lifetime Burning, Carrying the Line and The Aloha Fruit.

The library is located at 625 Pacific St. in Monterey. For information about future programs, call 646-3933.

SPCA sponsors stampede, relay

The Monterey County SPCA's Five-Mile Stampede and Relay is sponsored by ForeRunner Sports, KOCN Radio, Chamisal Tennis Club and Vittel Mineral Water.

The entry fee, right up until race day, Aug. 29, will be $10 individual and $16 for relay teams.

The race begins at 9 a.m. at the Chamisal Tennis Club and will occur on the winding and rolling hills of Robley and Corral de Tierra roads. Awards will be presented to the first three places in each of the age categories.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the SPCA, 373-2631 or 422-4721.

Children's theater registration set

Registration for the 1987-88 season of classes at Children's Experimental Theatre will take place 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Indoor Forest Theatre, Mountain View and Santa Rita, Carmel. It will continue 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 12.

Classes are open to all children from first through 12th grades on a first come, first enrolled basis.

The classes cover speech, movement, improvisation, pantomime, period costume and dance, stage combat and other aspects of performance. Space is limited.

For further information and special registration, call 624-1531.

History brought to life

On Saturday, Aug. 29, the Cooper-Molera Complex at the Monterey State Historic Park will come alive with entertainment.

This "living history" event begins at 10 a.m. at the complex located at 525 Polk St. in Monterey. A free "brunch-munch" will be served 10 a.m. to 10:50 a.m. to the first 250 attendees. Cali Quail, Fred Flintstone, Barney Rubble and Sugar Bear will be in attendance.

The brunch will also include four living history demonstrations and music by El Mariachi Mixtlan.

From 10:50 to 11:05 a.m., Joel Ben Izzy will present a story from Monterey's past, and from 11:05 to 11:35 a.m., actors from GroveMont Theater will enact how the California Constitution came to be.

Izzy will present his "Story of the Constitution" from 11:35 to 11:50 a.m. From 11:50 until noon, there will be a costume contest and prize giveaway.

Big Band sounds come to Monterey

"Super" Don Schamber and the Monterey Peninsula College Alumni Big Band will perform Sunday, Aug. 30 in the Whispers Lounge of the Hyatt Regency Monterey.

The 21-piece band includes both professional musicians and community members. They perform both classic and contemporary jazz.

Admission is free to the 4 to 7 p.m. concert. The Hyatt is located on Old Golf Course Road in Monterey.

Dance your socks off for KAZU

An old-fashioned, end of summer sock hop dance party to benefit radio station KAZU is planned Saturday, Aug. 29 at the American Legion Hall in Monterey.

The "Don't Have to Go Back to School" event will feature dance hits from the '50s and '60s, utilizing eight of KAZU's most popular announcers who will bring their own records to play.

Prizes will be offered to the best dancers and the person wearing the most outrageous socks.

The hop begins at 9 p.m. at the hall, which is located at Jefferson and High streets in Monterey and offers a full bar. Admission is $3 and will be limited to those 21 and under.

KAZU is a non-commercial, listener-supported station in Pacific Grove at 90.3 FM, featuring an eclectic variety of programming, including oldies and other hard-to-find music.

Choral Society resumes rehearsals

The Monterey Peninsula Choral Society meets at 7 p.m. weekly at Monterey Peninsula College.

The ensemble meets under the direction of conductor David Rupert. All singers are welcomed; no audition is required. Concerts are presented in December and April at the Carmel Mission Basilica.

The main work for the upcoming Christmas program is Mozart's "Coronation Mass."

The group meets in Room M-10 at MPC. For further information, call 373-8595.

Book mark artists can compete

The Monterey County Library sponsors its fifth annual book mark contest during September. Five winners will be selected from each of three age categories: 4 to 7, 8 to 12, and 13 and above.

The book mark should be designed in black on white paper, eight and one-half by three inches, one side only. Pencil or colored ink is not acceptable.

Contestants may enter as many designs as desired, but all entries must be submitted to any Monterey County Library Branch or station by Sept. 30. Each book mark must contain name, age, address, phone and library on the back.

The 15 winning book marks will be duplicated and distributed throughout the county library system during National Children's Book Week, Nov. 16 to 22.

Verna Test works exhibited

The featured artist for September at the Carmel Foundation is Verna Test. The gallery is located in the foundation, Lincoln and Eighth, Carmel.

The gallery is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, 1 to 5 p.m. weekends.

Rolfing experts describe process

Certified Rolf Practitioners Kalyani Gilliam and Lynda Connelly will discuss various aspects of Structural Integration/Rolfing.

The free program will include a short video, demonstration with volunteers and time for questions and answers.

The program will be offered 7 to 9 p.m. Friday, Aug. 28 in the community room of the Crossroads, Rio Road off Highway 1, Carmel. For more information, call 372-6466.

El Mariachi Mixtlan performs

The 1987 Sunday Afternoon Concert Season concludes with a Sunday, Aug. 30 performance by El Mariachi Mixtlan at the Outdoor Forest Theatre.

The company has twice toured Mexico and appeared on international television. They have attended the Tucson International Mariachi Conference for the past four years and this year won first place in that competition.

They were the traditional "Traje de Mariachi," complete with botonadura, sombrero de charro and cinturón.

The free concert will begin at 2 p.m. at the theater located at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel. For details, call 624-3996.

Spiritual counselor speaks

"Mystic Musings from M.A." is the focus of Mary Ann Meagher's program during the Sunday, Aug. 30 Psychic Lecture Series.

The spiritual counselor will speak at 7:30 in Portofino Cafe, located downstairs in Pacific Grove Plaza, 620 Lighthouse Ave., Pacific Grove. Admission is $2. For details, call 373-7379.

Fort Ord Band will appear

Downtown Monterey's Portola Plaza will provide the setting for a Friday, Aug. 28 concert by the Fort Ord 7th Infantry Division (Light) Band.

Admission is free to the concert, which will begin at noon. For more information, call 649-1770.

CARMEL POLICE REPORT BY MARIUS CRISAN

Belt them all

A FEW weeks ago, I was talking to one of my friends on the California Highway Patrol. Somehow the conversation drifted to the subject of seat belts.

"You know what seat belts are?" he asked me rhetorically. "Seat belts," he continued, "are those things that hang out of the bottom of moving vehicle doors and jingle along the pavement while everyone in the car wonders where the strange noise is coming from."

"Yeah," I replied. "Whenever I see that, I get so mad that I could belt them all." The jokes went downhill from there. All kidding aside, I wish that there were some way that I could insure that each and every motorist in the country would use their seat belts. This would ease my workload. More importantly, it would substantially cut down the death and injury rate on our streets and highways.

Obviously there are not enough peace officers in all of creation to personally remind everyone of this often unused safety feature every time they climb into an automobile. I can only hope that some readers will notice this article and take the message to heart. You should also know that Section 27315 of the California Vehicle Code, otherwise known as "The Private Passenger Motor Vehicle Safety Act" now requires the use of seat belts when operating or riding in your car. Failure to do so can result in a citation.

Any decent gambler will tell you that, in the long run, the guy with the odds in his favor comes out on top. If you need visual proof of this axiom, just drive through Las Vegas or Reno one time. The casinos were not built by winners. Every light bulb in those places was bought and paid for by somebody who had a system of beating the odds. The same mathematical probabilities apply to the use of seat belts. Every study done by the Department of Transportation indicates that by using them, you have a greater chance of survival. Still, many people refuse to wear seat belts. Some are just too lazy, or too busy, or too much in a hurry. Some just subscribe to a number of myths that have sprung up around the use of these restraints. They have little basis in fact. Here are a few of them.

I am going to the post office. It's only a few blocks distance, and I don't need a seat belt in town.

The statistics indicate that 70 percent of all accidents occur within 25 miles of home. Eighty percent of all collisions occur at speeds under 40 miles per hour. People not wearing seat belts have even been killed at speeds under 12 miles per hour. Think about that one. I have seen vehicles backing out of a parking stall at speeds greater than 12 miles per hour.

MYTH 2

Seat belts trap you inside the vehicle and I would rather be thrown clear.

This is a strange one. The more you think of it, the more ludicrous it seems. "Thrown clear" has this silly connotation of flying effortlessly through the air after impact and landing gently on a pile of hay at the side of the road. I kind of doubt it. Most vehicles have glass windshields. They tend to interfere with the angle of ascent. Landing is another problem. Streets and freeways have few soft piles of vegetation scattered about. It is much more likely that you will land in front of a speeding gas truck or have your unexpected flight terminate abruptly against a concrete retaining wall. The odds indicate that you have a 25 percent greater chance of being killed when thrown from a vehicle than when remaining in it. Even in cases of fire or submersion, with seat belts, the occupants are more likely to remain conscious and are therefore, better able to escape.

The seat belts themselves cause injury.

None of the studies have given credence to this statement. In the few cases where the belt itself caused injury, it was found that the belt was not properly used or the force of the impact was so great that the occupants would have been killed or even more severely injured without the use of the restraints.

MYTH 4

I am a good and careful driver, I don't need seat belts.

The poor innocent boob that though this one up was also probably responsible for The Children's Crusade fiasco of 1212 A.D. It is wrongly based on the presupposition that all other drivers on the road are as good, careful, responsible and sober as you are. Obviously, this is not the case. Irresponsible drivers abound. Mechanical failures are a daily occurrence. All the driving skill in the world will not make up for another's poor or nonexistent ability to control his vehicle. In short, the bottom line is that even careful drivers are killed or injured in traffic accidents.

MYTH 5

I don't need seat belts. I can brace myself.

Sure you can. And I can leap tall buildings at a single bound. The truth is that an impact at even 10 miles an hour is equal to catching a 200-pound bag of cement thrown from a first-story window. Higher speeds also multiply the G (gravity) forces involved astronomically. Flesh and bone were simply not designed to survive these kinds of pressures. It is no wonder that injuries can be severe even at slow or moderate speeds.

Seat belts are uncomfortable.

OK, OK, this is not exactly a myth. It may be true that some seat belts are more confining than riding without them. But, look at it this way. They are certainly less confining than a full body cast or a lifelong association with a wheelchair, or a small plot on a grassy knoll from which you can watch the underside of flowers grow...for eternity.

OBITUARIES

Fletcher S. Olmstead

Cremation took place at Monterey City Cemetery, for Fletcher S. Olmstead of Carmel Valley, who died Aug. 6 of an apparent heart attack while driving on Cachagua Road. He was 80.

Born June 12, 1907 in Monterey, he was a lifetime resident of the Monterey Peninsula. He was a heavy equipment mechanic for various companies until his retirement.

He was a member of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Castroville chapter.

Survivors include four sons, Alex and William, both of Carmel Valley, Chuck of Castroville, and Patrick of Oregon; one brother, Burris of Seaside; two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death two months ago by his sister, Gordon Nelson of Pebble Beach.

At his request, no services took place. Ashes were scattered at sea. The Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Cachagua Volunteer Fire Co.

Mona Davis

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove, for Mona Davis, a homemaker, who died Aug. 7 at her Carmel home. She was 81.

Born Feb. 7, 1906 in London, she had lived in Carmel since 1964, moving here from Burlingame. She was a member of the Carmel Woman's Club and the Carmel Foundation.

Survivors include a daughter, Carol Edwards of Huelva, Spain; a sister, Eva G. Crawley of Christchurch, England; a brother, Bernard Metcalf of Sydney, Australia, eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Ashes were to be scattered at sea. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula, Box 2480, Monterey 93942.

Evelyn King

Private cremation took place, followed by scattering of ashes at sea, for Evelyn King of Carmel, who died Aug. 6 at the Country Residential Care Home in Carmel Valley. She was 83.

Born Sept. 27, 1903 in New York City, she had been a Carmel resident for 29 years and worked as the receptionist for the Monterey law firm of Hudson, Martin, Ferrante & Street for 18 years before retiring in 1973.

She was also an active volunteer with the annual Festival of Trees in Monterey.

She leaves no known survivors.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Norman F. Avery

Private cremation took place at the Monterey City Cemetery under the direction of the Mission Mortuary, for Norman F. Avery of Carmel, a retired sales representative, who died Aug. 7 at Carmel Convalescent Hospital. He was 87.

Born July 7, 1900 in Vallejo, he was employed for many years by the Union Carbide Corp. He served as a Navy ensign during World War I.

His wife Irene, died in 1981 and he leaves no known survivors.

At his request, no services took place.

Ashes were to be scattered at sea.

Kathleen A. Nash

Kathleen A. Nash of Carmel, died Aug. 11 at the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 95.

Born July 31, 1892 in England, she was a nurse during World War I. She came to the United States in 1922 and to Carmel in 1971. Her husband, Aubrey, died in 1979.

Survivors include a daughter, Barbara Hanson of Belvedere, and two grandchildren.

The California Cremation Society was in charge of arrangements.

The family requests memorial contributions to the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula, P.O. Box 3627, Carmel 93921.

Gertrude Cassidy

Services took place Aug. 12 at the People's Funeral Chapel in Hanford, for Gertrude Cassidy of Carmel, who died Aug. 8 at the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 92.

Born June 23, 1895 in Sulphur Springs, Texas, she was a resident of Carmel for 18 years. She moved to Hanford in 1913, where she and her family operated Cassidy Shoes.

She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, Lucern Chapter.

Survivors include a daughter, Betty Lawson of Carmel, three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Her husband, Eugene Sr., died in 1968, a son, Eugene Jr., died in 1985.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

The Senior Companion Program is an innovative concept operated by the federal government's ACTION agency. Companions provide personal services like helping fill out forms, shopping, writing letters, reading, taking walks with clients, home budgeting and helping clients get in touch with community agencies. They usually work 30 hours a week, helping several clients. They receive a stipend, transportation allowances, meal consideration and an annual physical exam. There's an initial 40-hour training orientation, followed by monthly training sessions. There are now 5,200 Senior Companions working in 87 projects around the nation. To qualify as a Senior Companion, a person must be 60 or older and have a low income. For more information, write ACTION, Senior Companion Program, Room 1006, 806 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, DC 20525 or visit the nearest regional ACTION office.

PROPHECY CORNER

By Phil Lunsford

Signs of the times Part V

In the Old Testament book of Ezekiel, chapters 38 and 39, there is a prophecy from God against Russia. God told the prophet Ezekiel to prophesy against Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. God said that in the "latter years" (our time), that Gog would come against or attempt to invade Israel. God said that only one-sixth of Gog's army would survive and the rest would die on the open fields in Israel. God said that He would give the dead bodies of Gog's army to the ravenous birds of the fields.

We know that the prophecy is against Russia, since Meshech and Tubal were grandsons of Noah, who settled in the area of Russia. Meshech and Tubal are the old names for the capital cities of Russia, and Siberia, which were Moscow and Tobolsk.

Until 1955, the term Gog to Bible prophecy scholars only had mysterious symbolic significance. For the first time in history, the first letters of the last names of the chief leaders in Russia spell Gog. Gorbachev is the General Secretary of the Community Party in Russia. Orgarkov is the first Deputy Defense Minister and

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Self-pity is destructive

Carmel Rotary, Aug. 25, 1982

On the 10th of August we celebrated the Feast of my Patron Saint, Lawrence, one of the seven Archdeacons of Rome martyred in the third century persecution of the Emperor Valerian. When Lawrence was ordered by the Procurator to hand over the gold and silver of the church, he gave it to the poor.

He assembled the lame, the halt and the blind and said to the Roman official. "Here are the treasures of the Church." Lawrence was thrown on a gridiron over live coals. With gallows humor he said, "I am done on this side, now turn me over." A friend of mind contends that St. Lawrence should be the Patron Saint of all barbecuers.

Everyone, at one time or another, is put on the fire. The test is not what the fire does to us but what we let the fire do to us. We give in to self-indulgence and we pay a price. But the greatest price is paid for the self-indulgence of self-pity.

We say to God and man: "My pain is unique. No one suffers as I do. Why does God do this to me and what have I done to deserve this?"

Self-pity is destructive and it is no friend. Suffering and trial should become a test of character as they were to Job. How do we act and react when the cards are down?

In crisis are we cowards or heroes? Do we deserve, like St. Lawrence (Lauream tenens) to be around with a laurel wreath, a symbol of victory over self? Finally, it is not suffering or dying for faith that is so hard, it's living it. Amen.

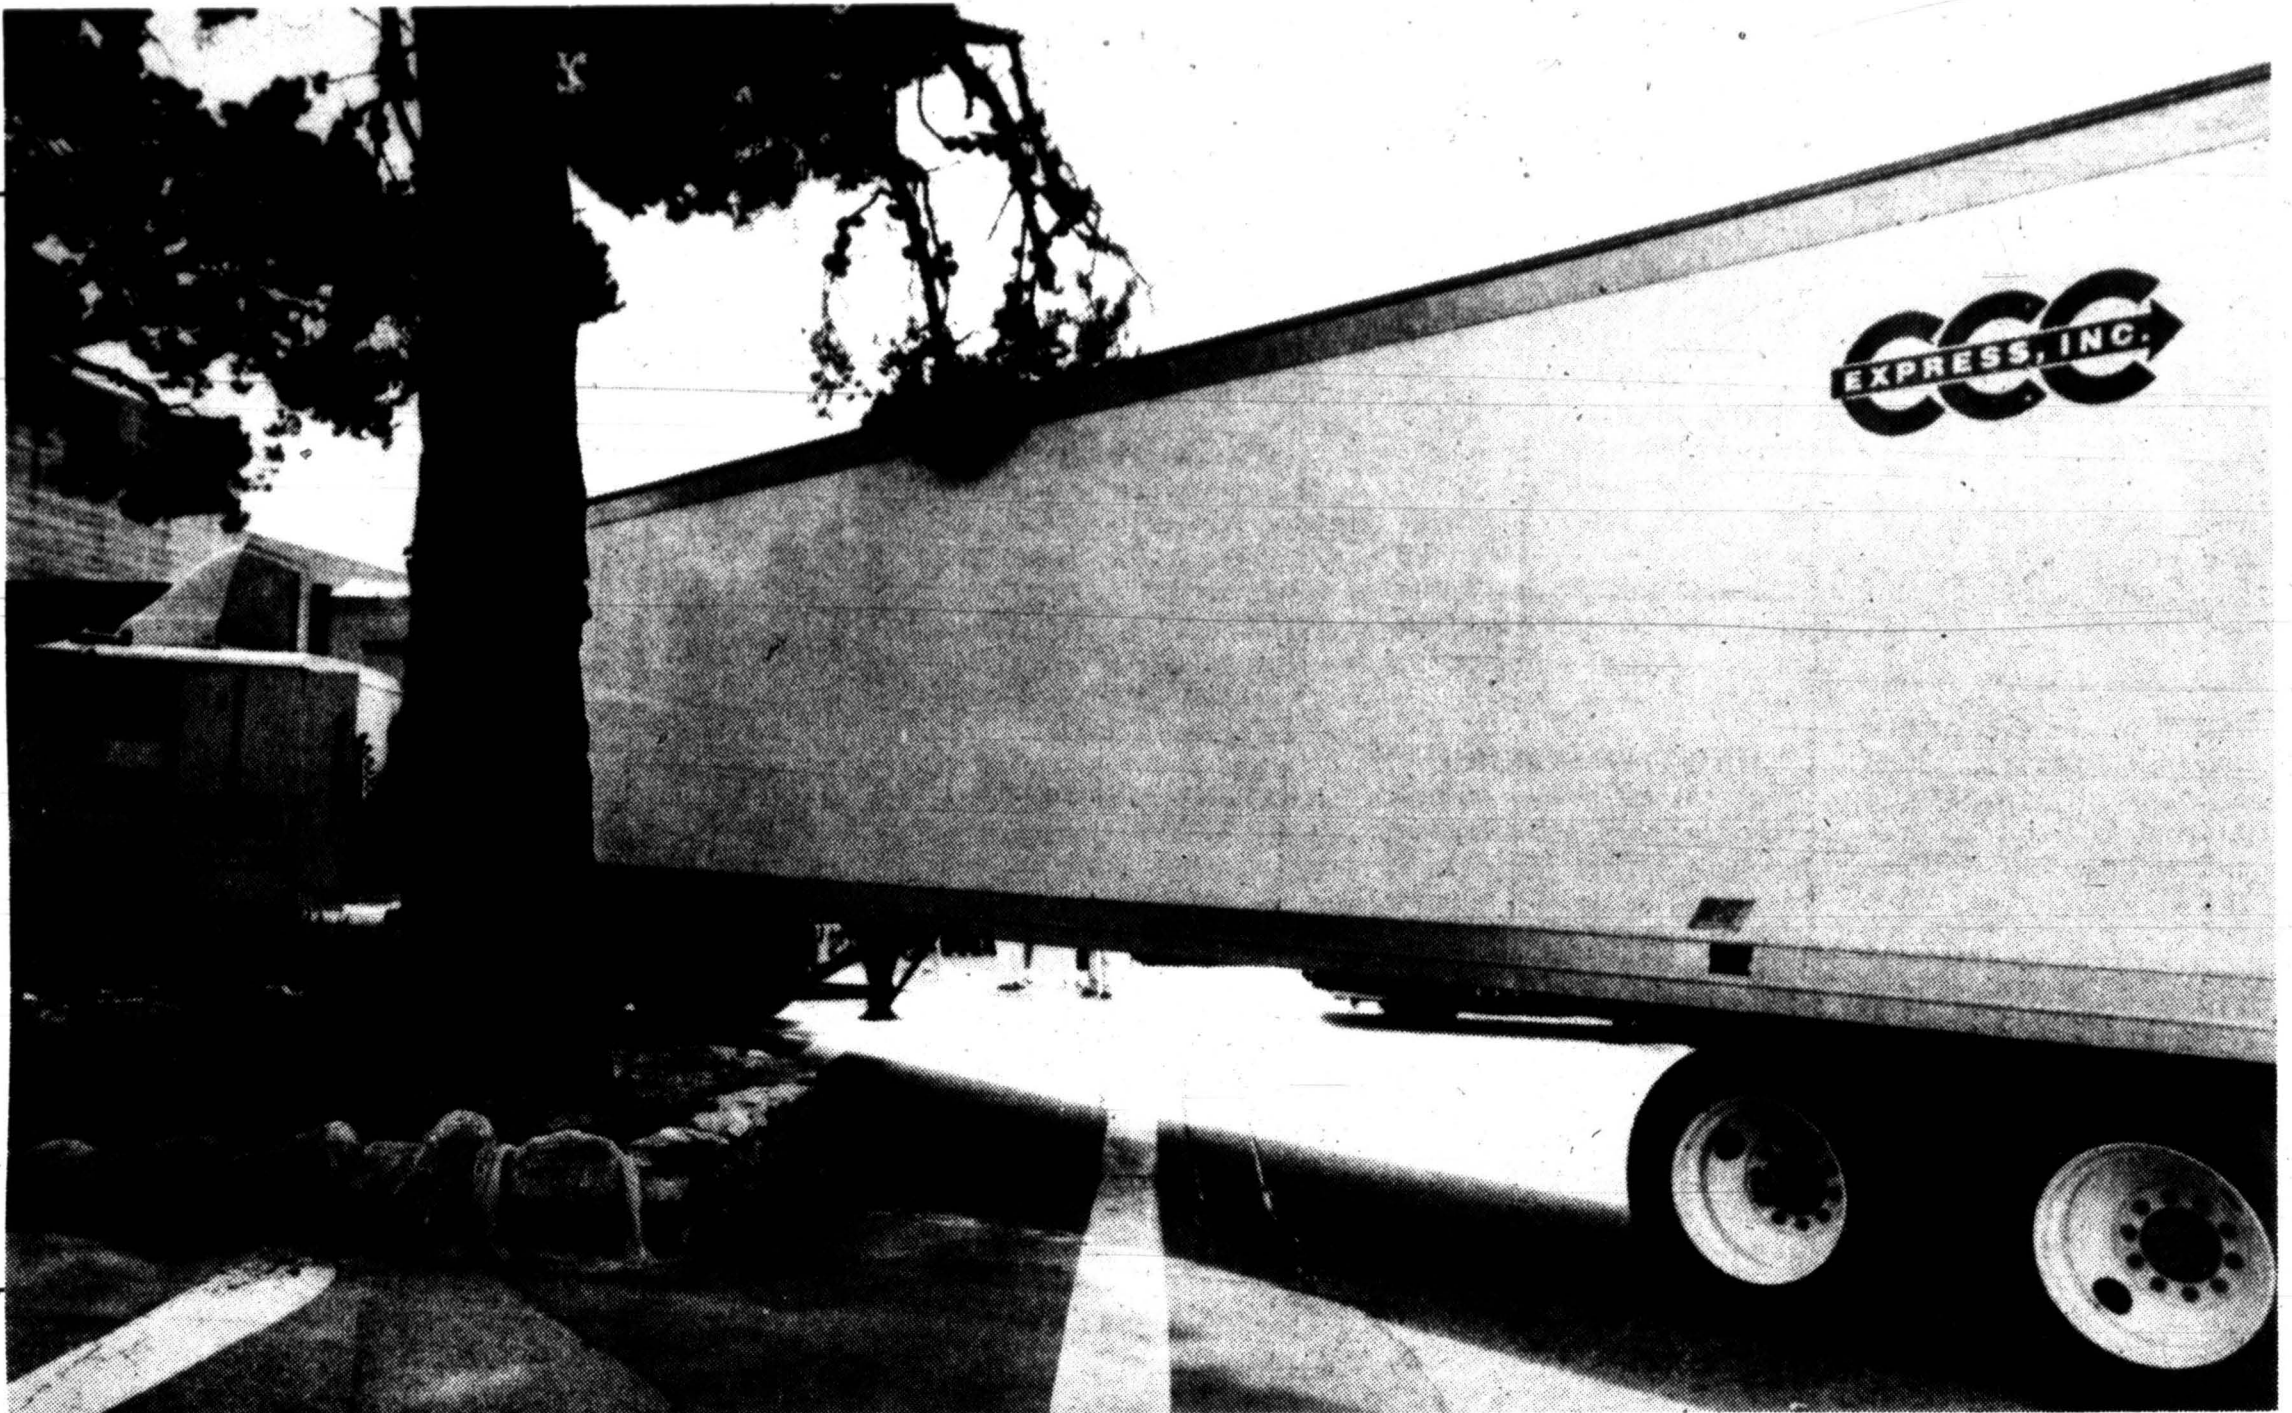

commander-in-chief of the Warsaw Pact Forces. Gromyko is the President of Russia, hence, Gog. I believe this is more than just mere coincidence.

In reference to the dead bodies of Russia's army being given to the ravenous birds in Israel, did you know that eagles in Israel for the past 12 years have been multiplying at four times the natural rate? God is preparing them for the clean-up of the carnage in His prophecy. Contact me at P.O. Box. 3504, Carmel, CA. Next week part VI.

THIS TRUCK from CCC Express had a hard time maneuvering a curve on Ocean Avenue after it made a wrong turn off of Dolores Street. Carmel police officers had to stop traffic for a time to allow the embattled driver to try and get through the intersection without any major damage, either to his own rig or to nearby structures. Somehow he managed. (Holly McFarland photo.)

IN SCAPINO, John Rousseau as the title character plays a kung-fu maniac, a pirate and a whole troupe of English soldiers during one of his elaborate schemes. The play is adapted from Les Fourberies De Scapin by Moliere.

GERONTE (Jeff Hudelson, right) threatens Scapino (John Rousseau) with great bodily harm for the tricks that Scapino has played on him. Frank Dunlop and Jim Dale adapted the fast-paced farce, opening Thursday at the Forest Theater.

GroveMont revives mischievous 'Scapino' at Forest

By ANNE PAPINEAU

IF ANY cast and crew members from the GroveMont Theater Arts Center think they're overdue for a vacation, they'd better think again. No breaks have been scheduled, in the near future at least.

The company, celebrating its fifth birthday, is prepping a reprisal of Scapino, a modern-day farce by Frank Dunlop and Jim Dale. Adapted from Moliere, Scapino was

Progressive jazz performed at Cherry Hall

THE CHERRY Foundation's summer music series, a three-part celebration spanning 80 years of American jazz, concludes Thursday, Aug. 27 with a salute to the progressive sounds of the last 30 years.

Co-produced by Carmel pianist Bob Phillips in collaboration with the Cherry Foundation, Thursday evening's concert will include a distinctive blend of jazz styles in the tradition of jazz luminaries Thelonious Monk, Charlie Parker, John Coltrane and Chick Corea.

ARTS & LEISURE

"The musical evolution we've followed in this concert series concludes with progressive and bebop music, which is usually characterized by more harmonic and rhythmic complexity than the ragtime and swing eras," said Phillips.

Joining Phillips will be Kenny Stahl on flute and Brian McConnel on bass.

Phillips' career includes 15 years as a pianist and conductor on the New York nightclub circuit and in the pit for a number of Broadway shows, among them Promises, Promises.

More recently, Phillips has performed at the Fats Waller Memorial Concert and accompanying actor Tom Oleniacz in the performance of poet Charles Bukowski's work.

Tickets for the jazz concert, which begins at 8 p.m. in the Cherry Foundation gallery, are $6 general, $4 students, seniors and military and $1 for children.

The Cherry Foundation, a non-profit organization serving the arts, sciences and education, is located at Guadalupe and Fourth, Carmel.

For more information and reservations, call 624-7491.

GroveMont's inaugural production, staged in 1982 at the Pacific Grove Middle School Auditorium. In its anniversary incarnation, Scapino will open at Carmel's Outdoor Forest Theater. It will be presented every other weekend, beginning Aug. 27. The Forest Theater Guild will present Kiss Me Kate in repertory on alternate weekends.

"We have just three more shows to put on this year and it seems like nothing," notes a battle-weary John Rousseau, GroveMont artist-in-residence. Rousseau plays the title role in Scapino. He is a veteran of the Magic Carpet Band, a theater ensemble that has played to audiences of mostly children around the United States and in Europe.

"This is a full-time, constant job," he adds. "The only way to take a day off is to leave town, because the phone just keeps ringing. We work all day and rehearse all night. We've just come from the summer season, and this project is the culmination of that season."

No one is more conscious of the busy production schedule than Stephen Moorer, GroveMont founder and executive director.

An alumnus of Children's Experimental Theater and Carmel High School, Moorer has seen the GroveMont season grow to include an admission-free Monterey Bay TheatreFest and critically acclaimed Festival of Women's Plays. The theater is based in its facility on Hoffman off Lighthouse in New Monterey. But GroveMont continues to stage shows around the peninsula.

"We're here to bring theater to as many people as possible," Moorer says. "There was an attendance of 50,000 for TheatreFest this summer. For some kids it was their first experience with live theater. Someone said that if kids can see theater before they're 12 years old, they're hooked."

It's the aim of the directors of the non-profit theater group to hook an even larger audience.

"Since the Studio Theatre/Restaurant closed in Carmel, there is a whole segment of theatergoers who are no longer being served," Moorer notes. "We have researched dinner theater and it really looks like a viable money-making opportunity. The Studio Theatre has been turned into an art store, so we're still looking for a site for a dinner theater. A restaurant with a large extra room or a hotel with a conference area would be good."

Moorer points out that the artistic focus of GroveMont continues unchanged, however.

'We'd like to contain the plaza with a large tent and do a major production at night, with an admission charge.'

"Our focus remains the new plays. We're committed to bringing new works to the Monterey Peninsula," he says.

Currently on the boards at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center is Stevie, in which Ann Mattingly portrays the contemporary British poet Stevie Smith.

According to Moorer, the projected 1988 season at GroveMont will include productions of Cloud Nine, The Elephant Man, The Majestic Kid and On the Verge.

Monterey Bay TheatreFest, a collection of shows presented in Monterey's Custom House Plaza, is also scheduled to return next summer. If plans work out, the format will be expanded to include a major production at night.

"We'd like to contain the plaza with a large tent and do a major production at night, with an admission charge," Rousseau explains.

"The other TheatreFest activities would continue," Moorer adds.

Rehearsals for Scapino have been in progress at both the Forest Theater and Pacific Grove High School.

"We try to conclude rehearsals by 10 p.m., because the residents have a tendency to complain if we run later," Moorer says of the Carmel outdoor theater.

John Rousseau describes Scapino as "very broad farce."

"All the characters are very caricature-like. Scapino, who is manipulating them, has a little more depth."

Among the cast players, three are veterans of the inaugural GroveMont production from five years ago. Tommie Bates and Michael Lojkovic both played in the previous staging, as did Stephen Moorer.

Moorer plays supporting parts in both productions.

"Someday I'll play Scapino, but I'm working up to that point very slowly," he quips.

THE MULTI-STORY set at Carmel's Outdoor Forest Theater is put to work by the GroveMont cast during a chase sequence in Scapino. The hijinks involve, from left, Tommie Bates as Ottavio, Bill Reinthaler as Leandro and Michael Lojkovic as Carlo. For ticket information, call 649-5561.

ART NOTES

By Sam Colburn

The competitiveness dilemma

THE ESTABLISHMENT of showings of art is difficult. Who will be allowed to compete? Artists who live in specified areas, or will the competition be open to anyone living anywhere on earth (and indeed where else?) Then there are the problems of submission of work, will pieces actually be brought to a certain place, or will there be judging by slides? This latter method is certainly the most practical for exhibitions that draw from a large area. It is also true that slides do not always give a representative view of an artist's work.

Having resolved these questions the institution has to decide who is going to judge the show, and how. I have thought it strange that people who are not artists are invited to be jurors. Would you ask a carpenter to judge horseback riding? Well this is not a fair question. I am sure that many an expert on wine has never had a vineyard. From talking to my peers, I have gotten the answer that artists don't want to be judges. I have only been a judge once, and that was in Boulder City. A nice old lady took me by the hand and led me into the presence of a bad painting. She said, "Can't you give my husband a prize? He worked so hard on it."

OVER AT the Pacific Grove Art Center there are drawings in the Hall Galleries which were done by survivors of our atom bomb attack on the city of Hiroshima. These are not the originals, but are Cibachrome prints of same. In the literature accompanying this show there are some apologies for the techniques. None are needed as in these drawings there is the truth of direct observation. The horror is depicted very well. It was indeed an "Unforgettable Fire."

In the David Henry Gill and Elmarie Dyke Galleries is a large and comprehensive showing of the members of the Central Coast Art Association. These artists express themselves mostly in oil, watercolor and collage. Their images range from tightly representational to abstract. I was perhaps impressed by the watercolorists. There is quite a range from Sally Fox Sanders' "The Club" to "Still Life With Figure," but they are both interesting. In the Elmarie Dyke Gallery is a fine painting of matillija poppies by Kathleen Stoker, and "Wharf" in which the planes are well defined. Also in watercolor are two small and charming works by Helen Traeger, "Cloudy Interval, Carmel Beach," and "A Rose is a Rose." In the same medium is "Close Up" by Gull-Britt Rydell, and "Blue Ware" by Gloria Rite Gupperich. An oil, "Ete" by Thersa Dunlavey has a range, within the medium, of impasto to what I assume are turpentine washes.

Getting back to the Gill Gallery, I thought "Rockscape" by Fay Hopkins in mixed media to have interesting shapes which create form. Cathy R. Bradford is showing a couple of small pieces of very personal imagery. There is a very fresh oil by Joseph Nordman entitled, "The Plum Tree in May." This is a fine, loose painting. David Martin offers two figure studies. I like his "Mujer De Galanca." The use of warm and cold color works well. Tish Rose is showing a high key collage, "A Day in the Country."

AT THE CARMEL Art Association there is a very special showing in celebration of the 60th anniversary of the founding of this group. The first painting one sees on entering the foyer is "Historic Buildings of Old Monterey." Francis McComas was the artist. It is high in key and the handling of paint is great, but he seems to have imagined the buildings. McComas had two very fine oils on the walls of the lobby in the Del Monte Lodge. The subject matter was the pueblo dwellings of the Indians in New Mexico. These were beautiful paintings. They were abstract. The forms did not jump off the canvas. When the new owner of the Lodge took over, the dead hands of the decorator removed them and now there are mirrors in their place.

Going to see this anniversary show is just like meeting old friends. There is a small oil by August Gay, "The Moonshiners." He was a damn good painter, part of the famed Society of Six. They are all dead now except Louis Siegrist. One large oil by Armin Hansen is untitled. It hung in Sade's Bar and Grill for years, and was called, "Three Old Men of the Sea." They were Hansen, Dougherty and Ritschel. His "Surf" is a simple, powerful watercolor. Howard Everett Smith was a very conservative painter. His "Parisian Model" has a simple elegance. John O'Shea was a brilliant and sarcastic Irishman. His "Blue Sea" is in this show, also "Holy Man." I would like to have seen some of his larger figure studies. William Posey Silva had a studio down on San Antonio. I like his "Mission Orchard House."

My old friend Paul Mays is well represented, especially by "Big Sur Landscape." Burton Boundey used to teach or monitor a class. His "Head of a Woman" is a warming and vibrant painting. I did not know Alice Gene Kloss who is represented by a small black and white entitled "Eve of the Green Corn Ceremony." Nor was I familiar with E. Charlton Fortune whose "Gossips" is shown. Although the name of Nicholai Fechin is familiar to me, I did not realize that he once was a member. Seeing his work in this show was rather like recognizing a face you knew, say in New York, right here with the home folk.

I did know Laura Maxwell, and I enjoy her "Matillija Poppies." Another of the early female artists was Mary De Neale Morgan. Her "Pilgrimage Day" reminds me of early times at the Carmel Mission. What I mean is "early" for me. I remember George and Catherine Seideneck, and I like the gentle quality of "Purple Hills," and "Point Lobos Grotto." Ferdinand Burgdorff was a familiar figure to me when I first came to Carmel. I think that he wore leather puttees. He was really a "pointellist." If you look at his "Sand Dune Surprises," you will see that it is made up of tiny dabs of paint.

A man named Myron Oliver ran an art store over in Monterey. He was also a fine artist. I wish that he had painted more. His "Monterey Bay, 1917" is being shown. There is one large oil by William Ritschel, and a small work. The latter is entitled "Witch Tree." He lived in a square stone castle out in the Highlands.

Among the early ladies who were members of the association was Henrietta Shore. She had painted and studied in Mexico, and is mentioned in a book called, From the Mayas to Disney. I believe that she was there at the same time as Jean Charlot. Her "Girl With Fruit" has her characteristic large forms, perhaps reminiscent of Georgia O'Keefe. Willie Watts had pure white hair, and always wore a brown knicker suit. He was a painter of loose watercolors as you may see in his "Carmel Coast Line." Another of the big names was Paul Dougherty. You can enjoy his "Summer Evening."

A friend with whom I painted many watercolors was one Royden Martin. We went up the valley to the White Mountain, and he also introduced me to the Berta Ranch. He is represented by his "Boats."

May I thank all the people who worked to put his show together.

FOR THE MONTH of August the Seaside City Hall is host to a showing of the art of five members of The National League of American Pen Women. I judge from reading about this organization that it was formed to represent women in many creative endeavors. One might say it came into being to help women in fields dominated by men.

Most of the watercolors painted by Anita De Carlo are figure studies. She has a feeling for the model. Her washes are straightforward and not overworked. I liked "Kay Like Nefrititi."

Jerry Motto who works in oil is showing three heads which I would call primitive. The set of the eyes has a haunting quality. The collage by Marion Wilson is a complicated work using photographs and drawing.

Alice Jean Small is a very productive artist who has shown throughout the world. Her subject matter is circuses and clowns. She presents them in oils, drawings, ceramics, and collage. Perhaps her most brilliant piece is "Clown and Tiger." The color is very high, but is contained by black lines giving the effect of stained glass. Her ceramic figures have an opulence. The large vase is great fun which is what clowns are all about.

Fay Hopkins is showing among other oils a large work involving a woman and flowers in which all the color is warm with the exception of one small area. I liked "A Small Wonder." This is a small painting which had depth and form.

In closing may I say that I give thanks to the committee at the Monterey County Fair who decided to hang all works submitted in the art show. I regret that I could not cover the very interesting exhibit of art by the eight artists from Australia which was shown at the Landell Galleries on the west side of Dolores north of Seventh Avenue.

T HEATER REVIEW

By Joe Guzaitis

Songs of deadly innocence

STEVIE SMITH died of a brain tumor in England in 1971. She had received the Queen's Gold Medal for poetry and enjoyed a modest reputation in her native England. That might have been that except for Hugh Whitemore's play about Stevie, her inseparable aunt, and the life of her mind, which was first performed in London in 1977. The play brought Stevie Smith and her wry vision of life to the world at large. Rather than languishing on the poetry shelf, she became a sizable literary figure. Add to that the movie that was recently made (starring Glenda Jackson as Stevie and Mona Washbourne as her aunt) and we find that somehow, a contemporary British spinster poet has attained superstar status.

And not without reason. What is special about Stevie is her independence of attitude, her determination of achievement, and her "little nugget of genius" as one critic ceded. She worked as a secretary for a magazine publisher and wrote in the slack periods. Her output encompassed three novels and well over 400 poems with numerous accompanying drawings; not bad for slack time! Her work focuses on love, death, and

God (in whom she did not believe, but held long dialogues with nonetheless). Often she puts speeches in His mouth:

Man is my darling, my love and my pain,
My pleasure, my excitement, and my love again,
My wisdom, my courage, my power, my all,
Oh Man, do not come to me until I call.

In man is my life, and in many is my death,
He is my hazard, my pride and my breath,
I sought him, I wrought him, I pant on his worth,
In him I experience indeterminate growth.

Oh Man, Man, of all my animals dearest,
Do not come till I call, though thou weariest first.*

Notwithstanding this sentiment, Stevie attempts suicide later in her career, but is unsuccessful. When her reputation begins to build, she begins to give more readings, both to poetry societies and also, increasingly, to schools. She also begins to socialize more, and becomes an inveterate party-goer, displaying both her considerable scholarship and uproarious sense of humor. She receives the Queen's Gold Poetry medal in 1969. In two years she will be dead at the age of 68. A brain tumor has begun to bring her down. One last ironic touch is that she loses the power of speech weeks before she dies.

It is a delight to have GroveMont mount productions such as these and also to do them so well. Ann Mattingly as Stevie is inspired casting. She doesn't falter for a second as she leads us through the biographical and emotional terrain that is comprised by the saga of this creative life. Jim Jensen plays "Man" — the chorus role that represents Freddie, Stevie's main love interest, as well as assorted cameos, such as death and God. These two fine actors have recently played together in Arthur Miller's The Price, a superb production that ran at York School some months ago. Florence Larsen portrays the "Lion Aunt" (as Stevie dubs her) wonderfully well.

Harrison Shields directs this very talky play at a good clip so there is no chance to bog down. On the other hand, the audience is not rushed through: the right balance is struck. The atmosphere within which these lives stand revealed is excellent, and there is a palpable warmth toward the script on the part of the players: this is ensemble acting at its peak.

The play is split between the 1950s in the first act, and the 1960s in the second act. The formative years and the performing years. In the first act Stevie and her aunt, who has virtually raised Stevie, reconstruct family history, complementing each other, building the personal myth. The dialogue very naturally has them jumping in on each other to clarify what the other has said. Aunt proves to be a good historian and valiant supporter. Stevie was to pay tribute to Aunt Lion in her first novel.

The second act takes place after Stevie has begun to give readings and go to parties. Aunt Lion is failing. Stevie reciprocates and gives aunt the care that she received from her in the past. She quits her job, takes care of aunt, and writes. And write she does. Her editor sums it up this way: "...when most modern poetry seems one dull colorless voice speaking through a hundred rival styles, one...enjoys her unique and cheerfully gruesome voice."

Nobody heard him, the dead man,
But still he lay moaning:
I was much further out than you thought
And not waving but drowning.

I was much too far out all my life
And not waving but drowning.

Costumes by Lady Ramirez were apt for all the players, especially Stevie's, whose outfits were known at times to give her a "little girl" look. The set by John Brady was cozy suburban and looked very lived in, which is reported to be the case: Stevie did not change a stick while living there.

The American poet Ogden Nash commemorated Stevie thusly:

Who and what is Stevie Smith?
Is she woman? Is she myth?

Searching out her God to haunt him,
Now to praise him, now to taunt him.
Then to sing at Man's expense
Songs of deadly innocence.
Across the world I hear her still,
Singing underneath the hill.

ON STAGE

Scapino

The GroveMont Theater will celebrate the five-year anniversary of its founding by staging of revival of its inaugural production, Scapino. The farce, by Frank Dunlop and Jim Dale, opens Thursday, Aug. 27 at Carmel's historic Outdoor Forest Theater.

GroveMont artist-in-residence John Rousseau stars in this comic madness inspired by Moliere's That Scoundrel Scapin. Carmel resident Sid Caro directs the piece. The cast will feature Stephen Moorer, Jeff Hudelson, Tommie Bates, Bill Reinthaler, Betsy Griffin, Michael Lojkovic, Sandy Williams, Elan Papa, Tony Craig and James Nesbit Clark.

It will be staged at 8:30 p.m. Thursday through Saturday. A matinee is scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 29.

Admission is $8 general, $6 for students and $4 for senior citizens 55 and over and for children 12 and under. Family admission discount (adults must be accompanied by a child) is $15 and is good for up to two adults and three children. For advance tickets call 649-5561. For information on group rates or theater picnics call GroveMont at 649-6852.

Stevie

The tragi-comic life of poetess Stevie Smith is the subject of Stevie, continuing at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center in New Monterey.

Ann Mattingly portrays Smith. The play is directed by Harrison Shields.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 2 p.m. Sundays until Sept. 5 at the theater, located at 320 Hoffman St.

Admission is $8.50 general; $7.50 for students, seniors and military; and $1 more on Fridays and Saturdays. For advance tickets, call Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561. For reservations, call 649-6852.

Children of a Lesser God

Children of a Lesser God, Mark Medoff's play about trust, understanding, independence and caring, is presented in the Studio Theater of the Western Stage.

Gerre A. Maillet directs the production, and is assisted by Pam Tidwell, interpreter and teacher of the Deaf Impaired at Hartnell College.

Final performances will be staged at both 2 and 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 27. The theater is housed in the Performing Arts Complex at Hartnell College, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas. Studio ticket prices are $7.50. For reservations, call 375-2111 or 649-5561.

Sea Marks

The sensitive story of a man and woman who begin a courtship through letters concludes its run. The Monterey Peninsula College production of Sea Marks plays at the York School Theater in Monterey Friday and Saturday, Aug. 28-29. He is a fisherman from a remote island off the Irish coast, and she a woman from bustling Liverpool. Their respective backgrounds lead to a touching and bittersweet tension.

The play was written by Gardner McKay and stars Michael Jacobs and Teresa Del Piero. Nick Zanides directs the play. Curtain is at 8 p.m.

Tickets can be reserved at Center Stage Ticketing by calling 649-5561 Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monterey Peninsula College season ticket holders receive a 20 percent discount off the $8 general admission price.

Sweeney Todd, The Barber

The melodramatic story of a man's greed and madness, Sweeney Todd — The Barber plays at California's First Theatre.

The 19th century work inspired the hit Broadway musical

Sweeney Todd. The troupers will stage an olio of songs and skits following the show.

The theater, the oldest in the state, is located on Pacific Street at Scott in Monterey. Curtain is at 8 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday through August.

Tickets are $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and teens and $4 for children 12 and younger. For information, call 375-4916.

Sweeney Todd, the Demon Barber of Fleet Street

A Western Stage production of the Stephen Sondheim/Hugh Wheeler musical, Sweeney Todd, the Demon Barber of Fleet Street, comes to the Main Stage of the Performing Arts Center at Hartnell College in Salinas.

Touted as a folk opera, the Sondheim/Wheeler version of Sweeney Todd has won a Tony Award, the Drama Critic's Award as well as accolades for set and costume design. Western Stage believes their production of this colorful tale — directed by Tom Humphrey and Lorenzo Aragon — to be their smash musical of the year.

Todd has long been an English legend, similar to America's "boogey man." His is the story of a man, wrongfully imprisoned, released and swearing vengeance on the evil judge who sent him to jail.

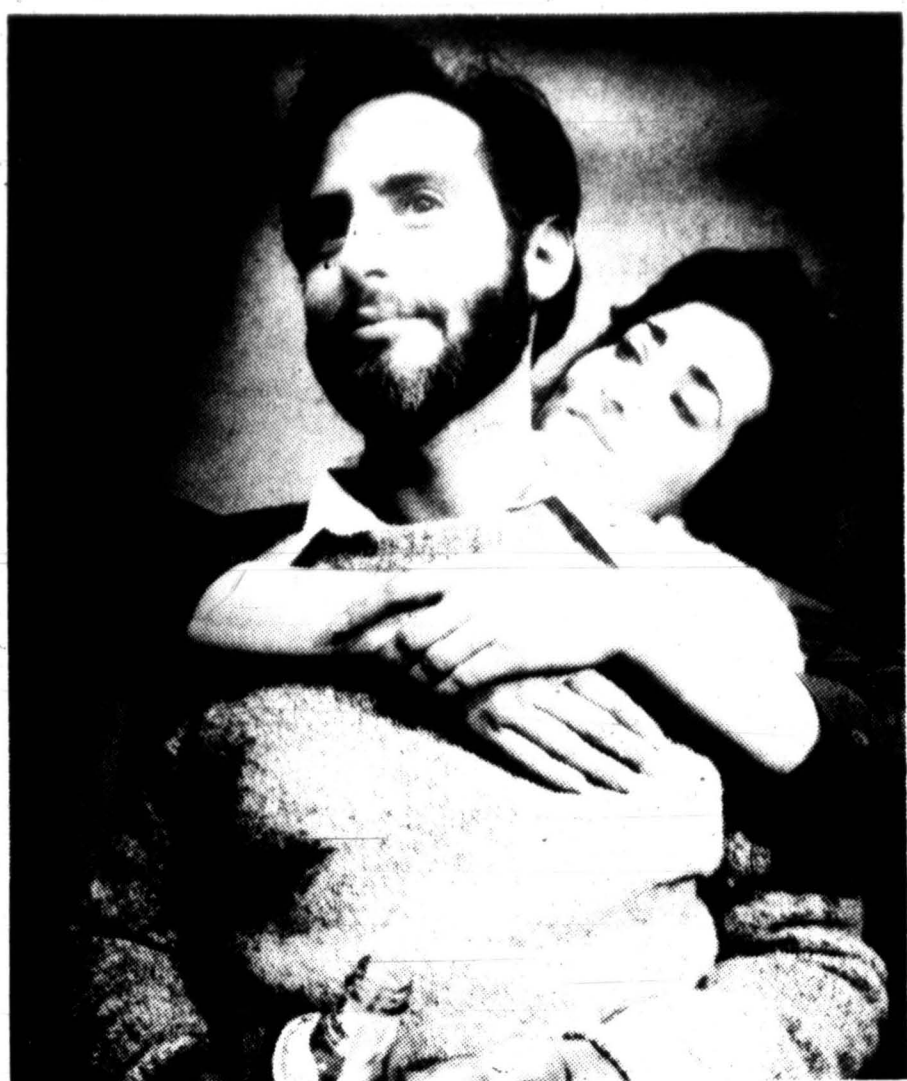

Final performance is set 8 p.m. Friday, Aug. 28. For tickets or more information call the Western Stage Box Office at 758-1221, 375-2111, or contact Center Stage Ticketing at 649-5561.

Hay Fever

A weekend at the country home of an eccentric former actress and her family turns into a riotous, provocative affair for a number of unexpected guests in Noel Coward's Hay Fever, continuing on the Monterey Peninsula College Main Stage.

Directed by MPC's Jerry DeBono, Hay Fever, is based on

Theater auditions scheduled

Open auditions for several GroveMont productions scheduled at three area theaters have been announced.

Final auditions for two women's roles, ages 30-50, for the dramatic comedy, Benefactors, will be held 5 to 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 27 and 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 30 at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center, 320 Hoffman (between Lighthouse and Hawthorne) in New Monterey.

A 1986 best play award winner, the comedy was scripted by Michael Frayn, author of Noises Off. The production will play weekends from Oct. 22 to Nov. 21. (Auditioners are encouraged to arrive early to prepare for cold readings from the script or to present already prepared monologues which are mandatory.)

Muse of Fire: An Evening with Shakespeare will have open auditions 4 to 7 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 28 and 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 29 at the Outdoor Forest Theater, located at the corner of Santa Rita and Mountain View, Carmel.

Performers are asked to prepare a two minute monologue from Shakespeare to be presented as their audition.

Coward's real-life encounters in 1921. Its lightening quick humor and morals-probing wit still hold up today.

An authentic 1920s wardrobe is used by actress Constance Eriskson, adding verisimilitude to the period fashions.

Hay Fever runs through Aug. 30. Performances are scheduled at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

Tickets are $10 general; $7 for students, seniors and the military, and $4 for children.

For reservations or ticket information call the MPC Box Office at 646-4213, or Center Stage Ticketing at 649-5561.

The Odd Couple

The female version of Neil Simon's The Odd Couple makes its Central California premiere at the New Wharf Theater in Monterey.

Presented by the Frohman Academy and the American Musical Theatre Festival, The Odd Couple features Olive Madison and Florence Unger as roommates with opposite personalities. The original female version of the play — with Rita Moreno and Sally Struthers — closed its Broadway run nine month ago.

The Odd Couple will play Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. until Sept. 19.

Admission is $9 Thursdays and Sundays, $10 Fridays and $11.50 on Saturdays. Tickets can be purchased through Center Stage Ticketing at 649-5561, or at the theater box office prior to the performance.

Little Shop of Horrors

The Western Stage concludes its staging of Little Shop of Horrors, a musical spoof of Roger Corman's 1950s horror movies.

Seymour, the leading man, is a nerd of awesome proportions who possesses a very loving plant named Audrey II. Seymour befriends a slightly ditzy blonde and discovers that Audrey II has a taste for blood.

Little Shop of Horrors will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday, Aug. 28 in the Studio Theater at Hartnell College, Salinas. For ticket information, call the Western Stage, 375-2111 or 758-1221.

H.M.S. Pinafore

Sir Joseph Porter, First Lord of the Admiralty, sails the H.M.S. Pinafore onto the main stage at Hartnell College for the Western Stage revival of this Gilbert and Sullivan classic.

This characteristically British spit-in-the-ocean farce plays at 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 29.

H.M.S. Pinafore is directed by Paul R. Waldo and features musical direction by Stephen Tosh.

Admission is $10 and $13. Children and seniors qualify for a $1 discount per ticket.

The theater is located in the Performing Arts Center at the college, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas. For information or for Western Stage reservations, call 375-2111 or 758-1221.

Master illusionist performs

Master illusionist, magician and sleight-of-hand artist Roy Slater presents his one-man show, "An Evening of Wonderment" at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center in New Monterey.

The production runs Tuesdays and Wednesdays through Sept. 2.

Slater has performed locally at the Monterey Bay Theater-Fest. In addition, he has performed across the United States and Europe as "the man impervious to pain," swallowing fire and swords, chewing razor blades and presenting his "bed of nails" routine.

"Roy Slater: An Evening of Wonderment" plays at 8 p.m. Tickets are $7 general and $5 for students and senior citizens. For advance tickets, call Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561. For reservations, call GroveMont at 649-6852.

Auction benefits eagle study

The Bald Eagle Benefit will arrive Oct. 3 at the Monterey Beach Hotel.

The Parks Foundation of Monterey County and California Resources Federation have joined together for a dinner and auction to raise funds. These will fund a study and management plan of the eagles in the San Antonio Valley located in southern Monterey County.

This proposed study and management plan will support the Environmental Assessment completed on a Multipurpose Tank Range. That range is now under construction at Fort Hunter Liggett. The U.S. Army has expressed a willingness to participate in the eagle study and management plan, however, it has said that funds are not available to conduct such a study.

The dinner speaker will be Peter Gross, director of animals from Marineworld Africa, U.S.A.

The auction has a headliner item of a cruise on Alaska Marine Highways to the city of Haines and the Chilkat Bald Eagle Preserve.

While in Haines participants will stay at the Halingland Hotel for two nights. While on the cruise a stateroom will be provided.

Additionally featured will be a bald eagle seminar at Klamath Falls, Ore. A three-day trip to Catalina is being planned with a tour of the bald eagle preserve on the island. At Big Sur guests will stay at the Ventana Inn and have dinner at the lodge after a tour of the bald eagle project.

This auction will be both active and silent. We will accept bids by mail for the major items.

To have a bid form sent to you simply write the Bald Eagle Benefit at 1051 Vaquero Road, Pebble Beach, CA 93953 or call 424-1974.

Should you choose to make a direct donation you can do so to the same address and a receipt will be mailed to you.

Decoy collectors assemble

EVER WONDER how much that shot-battered, primitive-looking duck decoy you inherited is worth? Or how old that carousel horse is—the one you bought on a whim at an auction years ago and parked in the garage?

Bring these questions to the Monterey Beach Hotel Thursday through Sunday, Aug. 27 to 30, and you're sure to get an answer.

That's when many of the top folk-art collectors and dealers in the country will be on hand for the West Coast Decoy Collectors Association sixth annual show and sale. Folk art enthusiasts are encouraged to bring their art objects to the Monterey Beach Hotel for identification, appraisal, or just for display with others who will appreciate the artwork.

This year's event will be a memorial to the late Hugh Chatham Sr., one of the founders of the West Coast Decoy Collectors Association.

Hospice antiques show and sale begins Friday

SPECIALISTS in fine antiques will bring their choicest stock to Monterey's San Carlos Cathedral Hall to benefit the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula, Friday through Sunday, Aug. 28-30.

The three-day event will feature a distinguished listing, such as Phyllis Lapham, known for her interior designs incorporating antiques and Orientalia; Keller and Scott, perennial favorites with locals; the Carmel Doll Shop; B.K.S. Antiques; other Carmel dealers, Simpson Antiques and Viau Antiques.

There will be opportunities to view and buy all manner of curios as gifts or for personal use while helping the Hospice.

The admission donation of $3 is tax deductible.

Look for booths featuring clocks, silver, glass, porcelains, paintings by California artists, fine linens, English, European and Oriental furnishings, art and curiosities from all cultures and areas of the world.

Luncheon will be available, provided by members of the Italian Catholic Federation at a small charge.

San Carlos Cathedral Hall is located at Church and Figueroa streets, Monterey.

Show and sale hours are 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday, 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Highlighting the four-day event will be a public auction Thursday, August 27, of 300 classic waterfowl decoys.

The exhibit at the Monterey Beach Hotel will attract collectors from all parts of the country. Auction time is 10 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 27. Friday, Aug. 28, the display tables will be open for selling from noon until 7 p.m.

Saturday's show hours are 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., when the duck calling begins; Sunday's show hours are 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Tickets for the four-day show are $15 for adults, $5 for children. To register in advance, contact Jerry Rosenthal at 395-9504.

Single daily tickets are available for activities on Friday, Saturday and Sunday and cost $3 per day. These tickets will be available at the door.

Champion pooches

ON SATURDAY, Aug. 29 the Del Monte Kennel Club will present its annual All Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trial. Approximately 2,000 dogs will be shown, representing more than 100 different breeds. Exhibiting will begin at 8 a.m. on the grounds of Carmel Middle School, located on Carmel Valley Road one mile east of Highway 1, Carmel Valley. Admission is free, though there is a $2 charge for parking at the school. Best in Show judging will start at approximately 5 p.m.

Brett Weston print

THIS SILVER PRINT by Brett Weston is part of the Friends of Photography's Twentieth Anniversary Exhibition. The collection can be viewed through Sept. 27 at the Friends gallery, located in Sunset Center at San Carlos and Ninth in Carmel.

Gerrica Connolly watercolors presented in PG

Earth's subtle energies are explored in Carmel artist Gerrica Connolly's upcoming show of watercolors and pastels, entitled "Earthgrids and Shadows," presented at the Images Gallery in Pacific Grove.

Images is located at 156 Fountain Ave., across the street from the Pacific Grove Library.

Artistic expression has been part of Connolly's life for as long as she can remember.

She says that the intention of her work is "to communicate love and humor, which transcend language and cultural barriers...and are two of the most important themes in life."

Primarily self-taught, the San Francisco-born artist has studied with some of the area's most distinguished painters, including Mark Adams and Sam Colburn. She is equally comfortable working in watercolor, oil,

Betty Barron's paintings depict foreign lands

Betty Barron, Carmel artist-writer-photographer, will present her third one-woman show of recent oil paintings in the foyer of Sunset Cultural Center during the month of September.

During this past summer, Barron has been living in England and attending Oxford University. She has been taking courses relating to her many interests, specifically a course of study entitled "Art, Archeology and Antiques," and another... "Medieval History, Mythology and Legend."

Earning her bachelor of arts degree at the University of Minnesota, Barron later did graduate study in the arts at UCLA. For many years a columnist with the Pacific Grove Green Sheet, she was also society editor and feature writer for Monterey Life Magazine and the Coast Gazette, as well as Game and Gossip and California Life magazines.

She has been speech writer for UCLA's Chancellor Allen, a writer and researcher for the U.S. Office of War Information, editor of flight manuals for Douglas Aviation, fashion writer for the City of Paris, editor for the international advertising agency, Erwin Wasey, Ruthrauff and Ryan, and currently a freelance travel writer with published works in the Monterey Herald, Motorland Magazine and many Canadian Government tourist publications. At present her column, "Carmel Heritage" is a Pine Cone feature.

Her current show at Sunset Center will include "Sunset Crimsons in Spain," "Salzburg Summer, 1985," "San Juan Capistrano Mission," "San Francisco Bay Under Fog," "Skiing at Squaw Valley," and one watercolor, "Golden Madonna."

College assists in matching employers, job holders

The Monterey Peninsula College Co-op Network provides an opportunity for the college, local merchants and MPC students to join together for mutual benefit. MPC is asking businesses that need employees, a motivated staff, minimum expense, and access to new ideas to contact the Co-op Network at 646-4074. In return, the merchant will be assisted to provide tuition assistance and a flexible work schedule at a quality part-time job for a student who would hope to gain real world experience and a professional interest.

This program has been endorsed by the Monterey Peninsula, Seaside and Pacific Grove chambers of commerce and the Carmel Business Association.

Businesses will agree to provide up to 20 hours of part-time work each semester (for at least minimum wage), a flexible work schedule, and $75 at the end of the semester for tuition assistance if the student has successfully completed at least two classes with a C average and no unexcused absences (one class selected by agreement with the merchant).

Merchants or students interested in the MPC Co-op Network should sign up in the Business Building, room B-205C or phone 646-4074.

English landscapes, historical subjects and Venetian scenes.

The CAA galleries are on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, Carmel. For additional information, call 624-6176.

Carmel Art Association screens free films

The Carmel Art Association will screen a collection of art films on Monday, Aug. 31. The free program will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Scheduled to be shown are:

- Japanese Architecture — explores the genius of Japanese traditional architecture based on wood with its harmonious relationship to modern styles.
- Femme/Woman: A Tapestry by Joan Miro — documents works commissioned for the East Building of the National Gallery of Art, from their production in Spain through installation in the United States.
- Danish Village Church — tells the history of Danish church architecture by beginning with the celebration of the Mass in a small and simple wooden church 800 years ago.
- Turner — explores examples of J.M.W. Turner's

DOUBLES

TWO OF EVERYTHING in this warm and cozy home south of Carmel's Ocean Avenue — bedrooms, baths, fireplaces, gardens, and off-street parking for two cars. Furthermore, it's very attractive, and comes fully furnished, so all you have to do is move yourself in. The perfect home for weekends, retirement, or just plain comfortable living in the Carmel style. $325,000.

A STROLL TO THE BEACH

A BREATHTAKING VIEW of the whitewater surf is yours forever from this luxurious contemporary-styled home overlooking the MPCC Dunes Course, as well as dramatic views north to the Inn and Links at Spanish Bay. The house itself is a jewel with handsome rooms throughout, most of them with water views. Five bedrooms, five baths, spacious living room plus upstairs and downstairs sitting rooms, cheery breakfast room, and quality appointments everywhere. $1,250,000.

A FINE FAMILY HOME

IN PEBBLE BEACH is a home you'll find to have a light and airy feeling. There are high ceilings (some paneled in redwood) and many skylights. There is a large master bedroom suite with its own deck and separate entrance. Also upstairs are two more bedrooms and another full bath. This home of approximately 2,500 square feet is in a nice location, close to Spanish Bay beach, a short walk to Pacific Grove High School, Forest Grove Elementary School and Country Club Gate Shopping Center. The price is $325,000.

CARMEL BUILDING SITES

THE FIRST is a fine lot on the west side of Dolores just south of Santa Lucia. It is just under or just over 6,000 square feet (we're trying to pinpoint this), it has a very gentle slope and has a fine view of Point Lobos and the Carmel River Beach. It's $275,000.

THE SECOND lot is on the northwest corner of Carmelo and Eighth Avenue. It is 75 feet by 80 feet (exactly 6,000 square feet this time) and it's in a fine location that could give you a lovely ocean view from the two-story home you would want to build. This lot is in an estate and the owners would consider terms to a qualified buyer...try them. It's asking $260,000.

THE THIRD lot is on the west side of Lincoln, third north of Second Avenue. It has about 7,500 square feet (oversized) and it is in a quiet neighborhood that is close in, yet private. It has plans that were approved by the Coastal Commission that would give a nice ocean view from the second floor. And it's asking only $155,000.

THE MITCHELL GROUP

A GREAT MONTEREY FAMILY HOME

This three bedroom home is nestled in the Oaks of a quiet family neighborhood. Approximately 1600 sq. ft. of comfortable living space. Owners have updated the kitchen, master bedroom with a magnificent bathroom in a magnificent fashion. This home is on 20 Via Encina, not too far from Seaside. It's close to schools, shopping and maybe a little work. Lovely fireplace. No assumable financing available. Priced at $215,000 and worth every dollar. Don't miss this!

CARMEL VALLEY

Views! Views! Views!
Mountains • Golf Course • Ocean

We don't know of another home which captures the views as well as this home does. From every room of this 3350 sq. ft., 3 bedroom, 2 1/2 bath home there is a view that seems to make this home soar! The open floor plan gives many rooms 2 or 3 different views. The separation of the huge master suite from the other bedrooms is another feature we like & find buyers asking for. The master is further separated by 3 steps + a small library/sitting room just off the octagon shaped living room. The family room also is octagon shaped and both have fireplaces and unique vaulted peaked wood ceilings, very unusual. Between the family room and living room is a tile floored dining room, a level 3 steps above this room. The kitchen, on the same level as the dining room and also tiled, features center cooking island, Corian counters, oak cabinets with vinyl interiors, microwave, 3 hole sink, trash compactor, breakfast nook, more & more & more, you have to see this to believe it. The subtle changes in the room levels gives each of these rooms added privacy from the adjoining rooms without boxing them in and losing the views and open feelings. The complete home has plaster walls with bullnosed corners giving a softness to the design. Did we forget? This is a brand new home! Drive out to Mid Carmel Valley 5.8 miles and follow signs into "Alta Mira." This new subdivision has many comparable houses already built & occupied so you can appreciate the kind of neighborhood you'll have. $525,000.

OCEAN VIEW CONDOS

Just a short walk from Cannery Row these 2 units (1 with 2 bedrooms and one with 2 bedrooms & den) have dramatic views of Monterey Bay all the way to Santa Cruz. Both have large assumable loans and a seller who just obtained them in a trade & wants to sell immediately. This is great for vacation rentals, second home or permanent living. $136,500 & $155,000. The lowest offering prices ever.

Located near the heart of the action near The Barnyard and Carmel Rancho, an extra-spacious 3 bedroom, 3 bath home with a functional floor plan which allows for a private master suite on the main level, and a children's bedroom wing on the upper level. A large dining room off the kitchen would serve as a family room combination and the spacious living room offers a view deck, plus a unique 2-sided fireplace to a den. This newer, stylish residence is one of those rare "most-for-the-least" values — lots of square footage for a growing family, and all the flair for pride-of-ownership, offered at $244,500.

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA AFFORDABLE HIDEAWAY

What possibilities for a weekend retreat, or easily expandable for a sharp primary residence! This 2 bedroom, 2 bath home has been updated, but could still use your imaginative touch. Open floor plan provides spaciousness, while the large, wooded lot enjoys that "Carmel-style Country Setting." A short stroll to the hub of town, yet well-secluded for privacy. Ideal at $199,500.

Adventure House

Let's say you're at Highway 1 and Rio Road. Drive south 4 miles, past Pt. Lobos State Park, past the Highlands Inn and across a short bridge. Turn right on to Spin-drift Road and immediately right again to No. 159. A curving drive brings you down to the house.

It's wide board and wide battens, designed by Will Shaw in 1963 and added to (by him) in 1977. The result is a quite fantastic cliffside dwelling with 3 bedrooms, 3 baths, a library and one of the most marvelous ocean views on the entire coast. Directly below you, perhaps 100 feet or more, is Wildcat Cove, a narrow inlet walled by granite cliffs, dotted with sea rocks, restless and moving with the ever approaching waves. This is a floor show that never ends, that is constantly changing, always absorbing.

This is what you see from the great 26x20 living room, through the wall of windows that faces the sea, and the broad deck just outside. The living room is high, about 18 feet, vaulted and supported by giant pine beams, dark stained.

There are 6 kinds of wood in the interior: cedar panelled walls in the original section, hemlock ceilings, redwood vertical planking in the newer section, birch in the cabinetry, oak floors and the sturdy pine beams which are notched-in, not nailed.

A tour of the house is too adventurous to describe. The kitchen is tucked in across from the entrance, with a service bar across to the living room. A panelled study is around to the right, and behind it is a large bedroom and excitingly papered bath.

At left of the living room is the sizeable, skylighted dining room; and beyond that the master suite, panelled in redwood, with a wildly papered luxurious bath and dressing area. Windows span the west wall and look to the sea.

The 3rd bedroom is up a carpeted stair and on a balcony overlooking the living room with its massive fireplace at the far end. Its bath and a dressing room are behind it. And behind that, a large skylighted, oak-floored storage area.

This house is a continuing adventure: trees, patios, decks, broad thermo-paned windows, sliding doors, vaulted ceilings, gardens and the endlessly changing sea. It's on one very special acre. $995,000.

CARMEL LEGENDS

No. 31

How does one connect a lady, whose lifelong habit has been anonymity, with the stuff of which legends are made? Well, one way is to relate her story to her husband's career. Such a woman is KAY LAWS, who has lived alone in a charming cottage on Carmel Point for almost 20 years, since her husband Clarence L. Laws, passed on in 1971. No one recognized him as "Clarence", of course, but everyone knows him as "Brick"...BRICK LAWS. A Cal-Berkeley man, he had two passions in life: the theater and baseball. And he made both of them work! His theatrical career sounds like Horatio Alger: started as an usher at the old T & D Theater in Oakland, rose to become its manager, bought in and wound up as co-owner (with partner Joe Blumenfeld) of a chain of United Artists Theatres. His career in baseball was even more spectacular. He and Joe bought a piece of the Oakland Oaks, the power in the Pacific Coast League and a pantheon of baseball greats. Among his managers were Augie Galan, Mel Ott, Charlie Dressen and Casey Stengel who, Kay recalls, was a non-stop talker. Their honeymoon in 1924 was at the World Series in New York! On my desk is a little plaque which says, "Behind every successful (sic) man is a working woman." That's KAY, and there are others like her in this legendary town: legends behind legends.
